Concord May Have No Cars Till Spring

Concord, Feb. 17.—This town, now thirteen days without trolley communication with surrounding towns, is not likely to have street car service again until Spring, for the car tracks are buried under more than a foot of solid ice.

Two car lines run into Concord Centre. They are the Middlesex & Boston street railway, from Bedford, Lexington and Arlington Heights, and the Concord, Maynard & Hudson street railway. Neither road has been able to open up its lines since the blizzard nearly two weeks ago.

DENY RUMORS ABOUT WILSON

Story About Bad Turn in Illness Refuted; No Cabinet Meeting Called

Washington, Feb. 17.—There was no meeting of President Wilson's Cabinet today. The President is able to preside over a Cabinet meeting, but has expressed no desire to do so for present, it was stated at the White House. It is not expected that there will be any Cabinet meeting this week.

Sensational reports circulated last night that Dr. E. X. Dercum, the President's brain and nerve specialist, had been hurriedly summoned to the White House, were denied today. It was stated at the White House that Dr. Cary T. Grayson, the President's personal physician, had spent the night there, but that this was nothing unusual. President Wilson was up this morning as usual.

Philadelphia, Feb. 17.—Dr. Francis X. Dercum, famous neurologist, who has been attending President Wilson, declared today that the President had recovered sufficiently to preside at Cabinet meetings

Nineteen men and women were arraigned today in the Roxbury Court for failure to remove ice and snow from their sidewalks. Judge Palmer fined the majority $5 each.

SHORTAGE OF COAL IS MORE ACUTE

Not Enough Fuel Coming to Relieve Conditions Now Menacing Industries

Continued low temperatures, with ice and snow choked streets, today increased the peril in the local coal situation, which manufacturers declared had reached a climax.

Lack of fuel forced the closing of the Mary Homeway School in Dorchester during the morning session, but enough coal was obtained to permit its reopening in the afternoon.

In a number of instances it was found to be almost impossible to deliver coal to the schoolhouses because of the condition of the streets.

Icy rails again demoralized transportation, and the New England sub-coal committee admitted that an entirely insufficient supply of coal was being received by water.

One steamer and five barges were today unloading cargoes of 9,200 tons of fuel for the New Haven. Elevated and domestic use, but this amount was said to be but a drop in the bucket.

Unless immediate relief was re-

Former Premier of France, on Trial

JOSEPH CAILLAUX.

CAILLAUX TRIAL BEGUN IN PARIS

Former Premier, Charged With Treason, Starts Battle for Life

Paris, Feb. 17. — Former Premier Joseph Caillaux was arraigned today on the charge of having treasonable dealings with the enemy during the war, and there is every indication that the case will prove the most sensational political trial France has ever known.

M. Caillaux will be tried by the French Senate, sitting as a high court of justice. The trial is expected to last about three months.

Although he had been ill, the defendant appeared in good health when he was brought into the court room from the automobile which had carried him from the prison at Neuilly. He replied in a firm tone to the formal preliminary questions.

The case had been hanging fire for more than a year, and the deep public interest was shown by the large crowds before the Luxemburg palace, where the trial is being held. The galleries were crowded and there were many women present, including Mme. Caillaux.

More than 7,000 documents are to be presented, including cablegrams from Count von Bernstorff, former German ambassador to the United States. The documentary evidence further includes papers seized by the French in Alsace, relating to Mr. Caillaux's pre-war policy when he was a power in the French government. More than fifty witnesses have already been summoned.

If M. Caillaux is found guilty, he could be sentenced to death under the French law.

SAYS DANIELS SHOULD HAVE HALTED TRIAL

Newport, R. I., Feb. 17.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels should have stopped the second trial of Chaplain Kent, according to Hamilton Fish Webster, who continued his testimony before the naval court of inquiry.

Mr. Webster said the evidence had been collected cotrary to the practices of the navy. Mr. Webster said he was prepared to prove that the Navy Department sanctioned the immoral acts after they had been performed by using the evidence thus collected at the trials of Chaplain Kent.

DRIVE ON FREIGHT THIEVES

District Attorney Tufts Acts After Sensational Roundup in Framingham

District-Attorney Tufts today launched a drive on freight thieves in Middlesex County, following the sensational roundup in Framingham of nine railroad men on larceny charges, and the suicide of the yardmaster, John L. Willis, alleged leader of the gang.

District Attorney Tufts said that he did not doubt such thefts were quite general, and added such to the cost of living for honest people.

The Framingham gang, all brakemen and conductors on the New Haven road, is alleged to have made off with $75,000 worth of freight in the last three years.

Washington, Feb. 17.—The auction sale of ex-German liners by the Shipping Board came to an abrupt end today when Commissioner Scott, acting as auctioneer, received but one bid on nineteen ships that were offered for sale.

This bid was that of the Acme Operating Corporation of New York, which offered $850,000 for the Cusego. The other ships offered and for which no bids were received were the Leviathan, Agamemnon, Mt. The appointment will not be made for a month or six weeks as Chairman Payne desires to complete work which he has already started in the shipping board. Admiral Benson formerly was chief of naval operations of the Navy Department.

WILSON INQUIRY TO ALLIES

Wants to Know if They Expect U. S. to Approve Acts on Adriatic

By International News Service.

Washington, Feb. 17.—President Wilson's communication to the allied premiers on the Adriatic question was not a threat, but was an inquiry, the State Department announced today.

The President addressed a cablegram to the council of premiers to inquire whether they intended taking action, without consulting the United States, with the expectancy that the United States would abide by such action, it was stated.

London, Feb. 17.—The allied premiers were said this afternoon to have adopted the view that President Wilson's protest against the Anglo-French Adriatic settlement has opened the way for a re-entrance of the United States to the supreme council.

The premiers are giving extreme care to the preparation of a reply to President Wilson's note, emphasizing the importance attached to the incident.

Several drafts have been drawn, but all were rejected as unsatisfactory. It is possible that an answer may be completed in time to hand to John W. Davis, the American ambassador, tonight.

Lane, who retires by resignation from the Cabinet as Secretary of the Interior March 1, will on that date assume the position of vice-president and special counsellor of the Mexican Petroleum and the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport companies, with headquarters in New York. It is understood Mr. Lane's salary will be $50,000 a year.

BRITISH ARE BUYING RUSSIAN ROUBLES

Berlin, Feb. 17.—London is buying immense sums of Russian roubles on the German bourse, and belief was expressed today in financial circles that this might be accepted as an indication that "Great Britain is preparing to make peace with Soviet Russia."

SCHOONER HELPLESS IN GALE

Fannie Prescott, Rudderless, Is Feared to Have Been Blown Far Out to Sea

The Gloucester fishing schooner Fannie Prescott, with Captain Walter Goulart and twenty men aboard, today was reported to be drifting rudderless and helpless somewhere east of Boston Light.

Captain J. W. McLean of the steam trawler Wave, which arrived at the South Boston fish pier today, stated that he was forced to abandon the schooner after towing her 150 miles.

A heavy off-shore wind sprang up a short time later and it is feared that the Prescott was blown many miles to sea.

According to Captain McLean, he fell in with the Prescott during a snowstorm last Saturday while returning from Georges Banks. The schooner, disabled by the loss of her rudder, was drifting in the trough of the sea with the crew making unsuccessful efforts to keep her head up by means of drags.

The Wave took the helpless craft in tow and dragged her until 4:30 Sunday afternoon, when the second line broke. The first had given way some time previously. Having no more lines and the gale having abated, Captain McLean decided to continue to Boston, offering to take Captain Goulart and his men aboard.

They elected to remain with the schooner, however, and were left to their fate. When last seen the Prescott was about seventy miles east of the light.

On Sunday night, however, a heavy offshore wind came up, and grave fears were expressed today for the safety of the schooner. It was said that unless she encountered some other craft which could take her in tow, it would be impossible for the schooner to make port.

Indeed! One Canadian Worth Six Yankees?

By International News Service.

Toronto, Ont., Feb. 17.—Brigadier-General Andrews of the Canadian army in an address before the Canadian Club, declared that the Canadians with 105,000 men obtained almost exactly the same results in the last 100 days of the war as the Americans with 650,000 men.

General Andrews was referring to the great American offensive on the Argonne-Meuse front when he made the comparison.

RUSSIAN 'REDS' RAID RUMANIA

Defenders Throw Up Line of Fortifications; May Ask Aid of Allies

By International News Service.

London, Feb. 17.—Russian Bolshevik forces have invaded Rumania, according to a Bucharest dispach to the Daily Express today.

Ten divisions of Russians are reported to have crossed the Rumanian frontier.

The King's Council has been summoned at Bucharest to consider the situation. It is expected that a plea will be made to the allies for assistance.

ASKS CANADIANS TO QUIT BUYING HERE

PLAN BIG MILL STRIKE APRIL 1

Lawrence Operatives Take Vote on 44-Hour Week and 50 Per Cent. Increase

Lawrence, Feb. 17.—What is in effect a strike vote is being taken among the thousands of mill hands here who are members of the Amalgamated Textile Workers of America.

The move is believed to portend a nation-wide strike of textile operatives by April 1 at the latest.

The ballot being circulated among the local workers does not mention strikes. It seeks to find out how many workers want the forty-four-hour week and a 50 per cent. increase in pay.

Leaders of the Amalgamated Workers, however, admit that the operatives know that a strike is implied. They do not expect to get their demands without one.

Interesting developments are expected here, as the United Textile Workers of America, the A. F. of L. organization, is opposing the "radicals" of the Amalgamated. The latter union claims 75,000 paid-up members.

WARN TURKS TO CEASE ARMENIAN KILLINGS

London, Feb. 17.—Great Britain has instructed Admiral de Robeck, commander of the British naval forces in Turkish waters, to warn the Turks that the Turkish peace terms will be revised if there are any fruther massacres of Armenians. The British commander was told to notify the Turkish government that the Turks are to retain Constantinople.

SENATE BILL TO RECONDITION EX-GERMAN SHIPS FOR U. S. MARINE

JONES' MEASURE AIMS TO BLOCK LINERS' SALE

By International News Service.

Washington, Feb. 17.—A bill to block the sale of the thirty ex-German ships by the Shipping Board, and to require it to take immediate steps to recondition them for the upbuilding of the American merchant marine, was introduced in the Senate this afternoon by Senator Jones, Republican of Washington, chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee.

There was no discussion of the Jones measure. Senators present when he presented it gave tacit approval of it by their silence. The Jones bill provides:

"That the passenger and the combination freight and passenger ships acquired by the United States from Germany shall not be sold except as may hereinafter be provided by law, and the United States Shipping Board and Emergency Fleet Corporation is hereby authorized and directed to repair and recondition those ships without delay and pay for the same out of the revenues derived from the operation of ships under its control.

Wheeler Raps Payne Excuse

By International News Service.

Washington, Feb. 17.—"Prohibition cannot be used as the goat to cover up the real conditions of our shipping industry," declared Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon League, today in a statement in reply to declarations from Chairman Payne of the Shipping Board that the "dry" passenger liners of the government could not compete with "wet" passenger liners of foreign registry.

"If prohibition was the only handicap to successful American passenger ship service, not a ship would be sold," continued Wheeler. "The advent of prohibition simply serves as an excuse for covering up other conditions that have more to do with passenger ship troubles than the absence of liquor.

"Other nations operate their ships under more favorable conditions as to wages, cost of service and fewer handicaps and encouragement by legislation."

York Decries Sale of Ships

Washington, Feb. 17.—With a view of making a personal protest against the sale of the thirty liners comprising the ex-German fleet, Major John Devereaux York, one of the naval architects who went over the German ships shortly after they were seized in American ports, has arrived here from Chicago.

Major York said that it would be an "outrage" to dispose of the ships.

"This great fleet is the finest merchant marine unit in the world," he said. "As a naval architect who personally made a survey of the most of this fleet, I wish to say that nothing that floats even approaches them for fineness and strength of construction.

"I have read that these vessels, which make up a great part of the most splendidly built and efficiently equipped maritime unit in the world, may be scrapped at a colossal figure. I will do all I can to prevent this.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY NATHAN A. TUFTS of Middlesex County—The conduct of that department of this administration of the government has been marked by so much incompetency that it is not surprising to find this added instance of incompetency.

SAMUEL MENDUM, Representative of Woburn—If the ships are to be sold they should be kept under the American flag. I believe the ships should be operated under private control, for I do not believe that the government can operate passenger and cargo ships in time of peace successfully.

HAROLD M. SMITH, Representative, Portsmouth—I am heartily in favor of increasing the merchant marine and I believe that the best method that should be used is to keep the German ships. I feel that it is an outrage to sell them at the present price.

W. C. CLARKE, Manager Crystal Confectionery Company, Burlington—I am very much opposed to the sale of the ships. It is the height of folly. I have talked with a great many business men during the last few days and they are all of the same opinion.

F. D. ABERNATHY, Merchant, Burlington—There seems no reason for sacrificing those magnificent ships. They certainly should not be sold for one-eighth their real value. I hope they will be taken over by some American firm, and that they will fly the United States flag.

"Other nations operate their ships under more favorable conditions as to wages, cost of service and fewer handicaps and encouragement by legislation."

Northcliffe Comes to Defence of President

By International News Service.

London, Feb. 17.—In a powerful Northcliffe papers—the Times and the Daily Mail—came to the support of President Wilson again today in editorial warnings concerning the President's protest against the proposed Anglo-French establishment of the Rhine problem. Hostile expressions were printed in some of the other newspapers. Extracts from the leading papers follow:

Shipping Board Ordered to Await Final Decision of the Court

Washington, Feb. 17.—"Unless I can receive assurance from counsel for the Shipping Board that the matter of sale of these ships be held in status quo until the court decides, I shall grant an injunction against the sale."

Justice Jennings Bailey, in the equity division of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, thus instructed Judge John Barton Payne, chairman of the Shipping Board, that he must not proceed with the sale of the thirty great ex-German ships until the court has decided whether it will issue a permanent injunction against the sale. The court decision will be given Friday. Counsel for the Shipping Board agreed to await the decision of the court.

The Times—The democracies of this country and the dominions are not prepared to commit unconrolled discretion to the premiers or anybody else in their relations with the people of the United States. This is an issue of supreme importance. The public of the allied countries will not tolerate for a moment a policy that will cost hundreds of millions of pounds. It is fortunate for our people that the Herald is supporting the President's loyal action, and I hope their efforts to stop the sale will be successful.

Daily Herald—This is President Wilson's last chance. Not even former Premier Clemenceau's vindictiveness wrought more harm. The boundless egotism of President Wilson is the means to assist at this late hour in doing justice. He still has a chance to achieve a reputation.

Daily Chronicle—As anxious as the allies are to regard the wishes of their American associate, it is difficult to see how they can comply. The request to tear up the Adriatic proposals is impossible.

Rhode Island Legislators Demand U. S. Hold Ships

DANIEL E. GEARY, Democratic Senate leader, Providence—The sale of the ships is not a political question but a question of great moment to the people and I hope the sale will not be consumated and that the government will operate them for the benefit of our people.

ROBERT G. McMEEHAN, Senator, East Providence—By no means sell the ships to any foreign government, but keep them for our own merchant marine, which is practically crippled.

WILLIAM S. FLYNN, Democratic House leader, Providence—Why should we sell the ships is the question in my mind. The whole transaction looks funny to me when our merchant marine is in such a crippled condition. By all means stop this sale, and operate the ships under our own flag, and for the benefit of our people.

WILLIAM E. REDDY, Representative, West Warwick—I cannot understand why the Shipping Board desires to sell these ships at such a price and on an installment plan, when we need the ships ourselves. It is fortunate for our people that the Herald is supporting President Wilson's last chance. Not even former Premier Clemenceau's vindictiveness wrought more harm. The boundless egotism of President Wilson is the means to assist at this late hour in doing justice. He still has a chance to achieve a reputation.

Daily Chronicle—As anxious as the allies are to regard the wishes of their American associate, it is difficult to see how they can comply. The request to tear up the Adriatic proposals is impossible.

New Hampshire Legislators Oppose Ship Sale

LUTHER B. SAMPSON, Senator, Rochester—I heartily agree with Mr. Hearst, and think we ought to keep the ships." It looks like a scheme on the part of some one to make a few million dollars easy money.

J. P. BOUCHER, Senator, Groveton—Price offered for the former German ships is too low. I am strongly opposed to sale, and especially at prices offered.

C. M. WOODBURY, Senator, Manchester—I am decidedly opposed to the idea of selling even one of the German ships, and in this I voice the sentiment of my constituents as well.

ALBERT B. ROBERT, Representative, Derry—I am very much opposed to selling former German ships. I don't see why we cannot use them ourselves.

JAMES M. KIMBALL, Representative, Lancaster—Former German ships should be sold to and operated by Americans only. The sale of the ships to any foreign country, hereafter, should be prohibited by the Federal government.

W. A. MORSE, Representative, Derry—In the light of present events, judging from promising possibilities, I should consider the sale of the German ships decidedly inadvisable.

WALDO ABBOTT, Representative, Berlin—Am in favor of keeping the former German ships to Americans only. The ships were acquired by the United States on entering the war, and are purely United States property by right of seizure.

ALBERT PENNEO, Representative, Hanover—My opinion is not to sell them.

JOE W. DANIELS, Representative, Manchester—Keep the German ships. Who are they going to lend the money to so they can buy them? Who is going to get rich out of the transaction? Apparently economy, like the lost arts, has gone into the shadows.

EUGENE BAILEY, Representative, Manchester—Am not in favor of sale of German ships.

FRED W. LAMB, Representative, Manchester—I think the position taken by the Boston American in regard to the sale of the German ships is a right one, and one hundred per cent American. Certainly, to my mind, not one of these ships should ever be given up. What can be expected from the present un-American administration?

THOMAS J. CONWAY, Representative, Manchester—When our country sacrificed so many American lives in securing these ships, I feel that selling them to another foreign nation would be an insult to un American flag. Our merchant marine department will have every good use for them.

W. N. BROWN, Representative, Manchester—Very much opposed to sale of German ships.

C. H. TUTTLE, Representative, Manchester—Seriously object to selling of former German ships.

THOMAS McLAUGHLIN, Representative, Nashua—Do not sell the ships.

FREDERICK M. SMITH, Representative, Manchester—With the peace of the world still in the balance, it would seem sound policy to defer action of selling at this particular time.

JAMES H. HUNT, Representative, Nashua—I do not approve of the sale of the former German ships, at a price which is one-third or one-half of their value.

W. A. HODGDON, Representative, Portsmouth—I am totally opposed to the sale at any price. The cost of twenty-eight million makes it seem not a sale but a giveaway.

CHARLES O. REMICK, Representative, Concord—While I am familiar with the situation only through the newspapers from what I have read I would say it is a very poor plan to sell the ships.

FRED SISE, Marine and Fire Insurance, Portsmouth—It is unreasonable to sell the German ships at the price quoted. We should keep them for our own merchant marine.

FRANK B. CHALLIS, Representative, Manchester—I see no reason why the government should sell the German ships. The possibility that they may yet be needed for the transport of troops is far from remote. In any event they should be available for extending American commerce. Their sale would involve the risk of their falling into the hands of our enemies, commercial, if not military.

LEWIS SOULE, Representative, Portsmouth—I have firm belief in the integrity of several members of the Shipping Board, with whom I claim acquaintance. However, I would regret consummation of the sale if ownership and operation can be retained by the government.

JOHN M. IYMAN, Representative, Concord—I certainly think we should hold on to these vessels.

GUY H. H. HUBBARD, Senator, Rochester—I am emphatically opposed to the sale of the former German ships under the present terms.

G. E. JORDAN, Representative, Milton—I am not in favor of selling the ships. Repair them and put them in the merchant marine.

H. A. TEATON, Whitesale Grain and Shipping, Portsmouth—I am willing to go on record at any place, any time, as opposed to the sale of American ships to any foreign power. If these ships, which are now American, are to be sold, they should be sold to American owners and with the proviso that they shall be owned by the United States in case of war.

PROSPER E. CHATEL, Representative, Manchester—Am not in favor of selling the German ships after consideration, and believe that these German ships should be returned to the merchant marine. So let us hope that the sales of these ships will be stopped.

FELIX O'NEILL, JR., Dover—Consider sale of former German vessels positively absurd. Believe they should be utilized in building up a merchant marine under the United States second to none. Good American dollars made their possession possible. Why dispose of them? Am positively opposed to their sale at any price.

BERT S. DEARBORN, Lacoln—It is the duty of every live American to protest with all his power against the sale of any ships acquired during the war. The United States now has a fairly creditable mercantile marine and we can take our place in the world's shipping. Any impairment of that acquirement is to be deplored.

JAMES McDONALD, Berlin—I strongly believe the former German ships should be sold to American interests only and no bids or propositions of any kind received from foreign sources.

DANIEL A. CRONIN, Representative, Dover—It would be a scandal to rob the taxpayer by selling at a low figure government property for one-fourth of its real value, not to mind the excellent fleet.

JOHN H. GRAFF, Representative Berlin—German ships in possession of the government should be disposed of immediately to American interests, and that they be kept on American registry and under American flag and that buyer should never dispose of them except under the same provisions.

JAMES MARSHALL, Representative, Derry—The proposed sale of German ships is unwise at this time. Government ownership and control of shipping is necessary until such time as we can work out a plan to substitute American shipping. Let us not forget the lemon taught us when we entered the war.

Maine Solons Oppose Disposal of Ship Sales

WILLIAM H. MURRAY, Representative, Portland—This nation has none too many ships now and I am decidedly opposed to selling the ships of the German fleet. It would take a whole lot of money to replace these ships and we do not know when they may be needed by this nation.

WILLIAM L. WALKER, Senator, Skowhegan—By all means an investigation should be held before the ships of the German fleet are sold disposed of, and I hope that we see that they will be sold to those who will fly the American flag over them.

VERNEY A. PUTNAM, Representative, Dunforth—I can see no reason why the matter of the sale of the German ships should not be investigated.

JOY A. AUSTIN, Representative, South Berwick—Keep those German ships for ourselves.

ERNEST CHAMBERLAIN, Representative, East Lebanon—This nation should go very slowly as regards the sale of the German ships, as now is the time to build up the American merchant marine.

GEORGE W. COMBS, Senator, Lincoln—I do not think that the German ships should be sold to a foreign corporation when we might need them at home.

HOWARD C. BURRELL, Representative, Belfast—Let us have an investigation. Perhaps some one in this country may be found who will want to buy the German ships, so that they may sail under the American flag.

DONALD D. GARCELON, Representative, Auburn—I think it would be a good idea for the nation to keep the ships, for the present at least.

BENJAMIN F. COLCORD, Representative, Seawport—I do not believe in selling the ships unless they are to Americans.

WALTER A. COWAN, Representative, Winterport—I believe that the German ships should be retained by the United States for the present. I think it would be a good plan to use these ships in the building up of the American merchant marine.

But One Bid Is Received for 19 Former German Liners Offered

Nansemond, Philippines, Wyandotte and Freedom.

At the conclusion of the auction sale, Commissioner Scott stated that the Shipping Board would make a comprehensive report on the bids received under sealed proposals on January 26, and those received during the two days' auction sale, for presentation to the Senate Committee on Commerce, and to the House Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries, and to the Court; if it is so directed.

P. A. S. Franklin, representing the International Mercantile Marine, declined to comment on the auction sale.

VICTORY FOR HEARST.

A complete legal victory for the Hearst group to stop the sale of the ex-German fleet was foreseen in the District Supreme Court circles here today following Justice Bailey's forceful ultimatum to the Shipping Board.

Justice Bailey instructed the Shipping Board that he would issue an injunction immediately unless the board would agree to delay the proposed sale pending the handing down of his decision on Friday.

This action represents the second successful gambit in the nation-wide protest of the ship sale, the first being achieved by Hearst when Joseph McCoy notified the board to show cause why they should not be enjoined.

It was the impression here in Washington that the shipping board's case as presented by their lawyers was weak in comparison with that of the people as presented by the Hearst lawyers. Hence the expectation that Justice Bailey will grant the injunction Friday.

SAFE WITHOUT INJUNCTION.

But, whether or not Justice Bailey grants the injunction, it is now certain no sale of the ships will be consummated until after the full investigation has been made by the Senate Commerce Committee and the action to get rid of everything connected with the war even if they have to give them away.

Hearst's American protest against the sale of the ships and the willingness of the Shipping Board to sell them for an amount less than that for which the ships originally cost, will be pursued.

It was apparent early in the argument advanced by General Ansell that counsel for Hearst had the intention of impugning the motives of the Shipping Board in attempting to sell the ships.

ONLY ONE QUESTION.

General Ansell pointed out that the sole question at issue was the one involving the authority of the Shipping Board, in the complete absence of legislation by Congress, to dispose of the vessels.

General Ansell contended that all the defendants can allow for their authority to sell is the emergency shipping act of 1916, which was before Congress for consideration long before the war emergency occurred and before it became necessary to seize the German ships in our ports.

The shipping act, General Ansell forcibly pointed out, provides only for the future disposal of ships built in this country.

HAD NO AUTHORITY.

"There is not a single word in this act which refers, even indirectly, to the German ships, or authorizes in any way their sale," he declared.

Assistant Attorney-General Ames, the Government's chief counsel, replying to General Ansell, cited the act which General Ansell had just mentioned as the Shipping Board's authority for the sale.

The argument of Judge Ames was brief, as he based the entire case for the Shipping Board on what he considered to be authority provided in the Act of 1916. He construed this act to mean, he said, that the Shipping Board could dispose of any vessel it operated in any way it chose and at any time it saw fit.

EX-GOV. FOLK REPLIES.

At the conclusion of Judge Ames' argument counsel for Mr. Hearst retorted to the attack, and the summing up was done in a brief and lucid manner by former Governor Joseph W. Folk of Missouri.

Answering Judge Ames' contention that the Shipping Board could legally dispose of these ships, Governor Folk said that "if this were so, what would prevent the board from turning them over to an alien, or even an enemy alien?" He continued:

"If the board's power of sale were so restricted," he said, "it might even be construed that they were legally authorized to dispose of the battleships and other vessels of the United States Navy.

"Why should the Shipping Board take to itself the authority to determine the policy of the government with respect to these ships? If they did, it is a power never conferred upon any administrative body in the history of free governments."

Prominent Vermonters Condemn Ship Sale

JOSEPH W. BATES, Senator, Montpelier—Don't know enough to express myself somewhat limited. I think that before disposition could be made of the confiscated German vessels.

IRE H. LAFLAR, Middlebury — I do not believe that the government should sell the German ships for one-eighth their value. It had better keep them and operate a merchant marine, than have them fall under control of a foreign power to be used in competition against us.

HARVEY R. KINGSLEY, Senator, Rutland—On general principles I do not believe the ships should be sold.

L. H. DIXBY, President State Bankers' Association, Montpelier—We are pretty far away from the seaboard, but it looks ridiculous to sell those ships at such a low price. If disposed of they should be sold for what they are worth.

FRANK E. McINTOSH, President of Chamber Commerce, Burlington—The sale of the German ships for one-eighth their real value would be in line with most of the other things the present administration at Washington has done. If the former German ships can be used in promoting American commerce they should be.

WILLIAM T. SCOFIELD, Manager Vermont Milk Chocolate Company, Hartland—I am against waste in any form. It seems to be the policy of the administration at Washington to get rid of everything connected with the war even if they have to give them away.

GEORGE O. GRIDLEY, Lathe Manufacturer, Windsor—I think our merchant marine should be helped. It should be built up.

W. B. McKILLIP, State Senator, of Bellingham—If the government wants to sell something, why doesn't it sell some of the automobiles it bought and which could be sold and used to good advantage. It is almost impossible to buy machines now. I am opposed to the sale of the confiscated German ships. We ought to keep them. The sale is about like everything else Wilson and his administration have done. First he keeps us out of war, then he can us out of sugar and we are all out.

C. W. BROWNELL, State Senator, and Former Secretary of State—I don't think we ought to give anything away. These ships shouldn't be sold for one-eighth or even one-half their value. We can't get ships enough to do business in this country. It has been impossible for months to get accommodations on ships from San Francisco to Honolulu.

JOHN A. FLYNN, one of the richest business men in Burlington—I think the ships ought to be kept by the government. I do not believe they should be sold. We should keep what ships we have and build up our merchant marine. It is most ridiculous for the government to sell them at this time at such a low price.

GARDNER BREWER, prominent Burlington merchant—I think the government should get a fair price for the ships if sold. I think they should be owned by an American firm, so that our merchant marine would be built up. Now is the time to build it up when we have got the ships. They should not go to a foreign concern.

HENRY W. TRACEY, Senator of Shelburne—The ships should not be sold. We should keep them to build up our merchant marine. They should not go to foreigners. They should fly the United States flag."

C. B. STEARNS, Representative of Westford—A fair price should be obtained if the ships are sold to outsiders. Under no consideration should they be sold at a low price except possibly to an American firm with the view of building up our merchant marine.

WILLIAM A. REMELE, Representative of Waitsfield—I do not favor the selling of the confiscated ships by the United States for one-eighth their real value.

SHIP PROTESTS FLOOD CONGRESS

Gallivan Submits Hundreds of Petitions from Boston Constituents

Washington, Feb. 17.—The nation-wide protests to Congress against the Shipping Board's plan to sacrifice the magnificent fleet of thirty former German liners has taken on added vigor.

The flood of petitions, telegrams, letters and long distance telephone calls which began to pour in upon members of the House and Senate after the Hearst newspapers' expose of the Shipping Board's plan last week, has assumed the proportions of a tidal wave.

Representative Gallivan of Massachusetts submitted to the House hundreds of petitions in one batch. Representative Tague of the same State filed ninety-two at one time. Virtually every other member of the House found his desk piled high with the Sunday accumulation of protesting communications.

HEARS FROM WILDS.

Representative Royal C. Johnson, whose district in South Dakota is 700 miles from the nearest and nearest Hearst newspaper, said he heard from back home the thunderous cry, "Don't let the ships go up in smoke."

A notable feature of the protests which reached the House was the number of members of the American Legion and other service men who joined in the protest against the American merchant marine for America. The famous 26th Division was well represented.

Representative Gallivan received this telegram from Charles S. Sullivan, commander of the Bunker Hill Post of the American Legion:

William Hunst of the U. S. S. New Jersey, Boston Navy Yard, "wrote across the face of a petition he forwarded to Representative Gallivan:

"LOYAL AMERICANS" PROTEST.

Many of the petitions and protests were signed by more than one person. One hundred and three men and women of Boston and vicinity, signing as "Loyal Americans," sent to Representative Gallivan a protest of their own preparation. Twelve groups of a local hotel signed another petition.

Thirteen employes of the American Slipper Manufacturing Company of Boston signed this communication to Mr. Gallivan:

"We, the unders gned, strongly protest against the sale of the German ships and we ask that you use all your influence to prevent the sale of these ships, as it would be a disgrace to the citizens of the United States."

In a joint letter of protest, William B. Gengle and Arthur Gardner of No. 50 Newcomb place, Quincy, Mass., said they were sorry to say that you will do all that you can to prevent the sale of those ships."

"We think we ought to give anyone," Peter J. Janse, No. 85 Dorchester street, South Boston, wrote Mr. Gallivan in a letter to accompany a petition. "Hold and keep the ships and do not allow the flag of any foreign nation. Look out that the worst and most deceiving hypocrites of the world do not get the best of the United States. Take warning against perfidious Albion."

One of the protests came from the bedside of seventy-year-old Adelard Pandol, No. 1 Forest place, Roxbury district, Boston, "sick at home with heart trouble." He said: "While alive I feel that the affairs of our country, after our duty to Mother Church, must be our aim; hence my sending you this petition for the good of us all."

"I would leave a stain on our grand party to allow it to come to pass, so you need no urging from me, when your duty calls as it does to you to your constituents, you have always been, and in this emergency in the front rank you will stand as of yore."

This is from Arthur L. Hathorne, No. 31 Moseley street, Boston:

QUOTES WILSON.

"I am very much opposed to the sale of the vessels as contemplated by the administration. Furthermore I feel it is time to have an American government instead of being ruled by England. I sincerely hope that through your influence you may be able to stop this toadying to Great Britain."

The communications were coming in so fast that Representative Walsh of Massachusetts, chairman of the special House committee investigating the Shipping Board, asked unanimous consent in the House for the reference to the standing Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries. He asked further that those which come in from now on be sent to the same committee.

On Mr. Walsh's explanation that the Merchant Marine Committee has jurisdiction over legislation affecting the Shipping Board, while his committee is only an investigating body, his request was granted.

Maryland Legislature To Act on Protest

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 17.—Early action is expected on the joint resolution introduced in both branches of the Maryland legislature last night memorializing the President and Congress not to permit the sale of the former German ships for less than the actual value, nor to any interest which would not keep them under the American flag.

In the Senate the resolution was introduced by Senator Eppler and in the House by Delegate Buck, leaders of their respective legislative bodies. Without debate the resolution was referred to the committee on Federal relations.

LEGION POST OBJECTS TO SALE OF SHIPS

Members of the Cecil W. Forgy Post, American Legion, Hyde Park, have protested against the proposed private sale of the thirty German ships.

If You Are a Real American, Sign This

To the Congress of the United States:

I appeal to the members of Congress to use their influence with President Wilson to halt the proposed sale of thirty former German ships.

Further, I petition that there be a most thorough and full investigation of every important fact covering the proposed sale. This investigation should most thoroughly probe the report that the Shipping Board plans to sell these ships, including some of the largest and finest steamships afloat, for $28,000,000, which is declared to be but one-third of their real value.

I desire to ask why cannot the government itself operate these fine ships rather than sacrifice two-thirds of their value?

LACK OF INTEREST IN PUBLIC AFFAIRS CALLED MENACE BY ZUEBLIN

RULE BY ALIENS URGED

Speakers at State House Call for Proportional Representation to Cure Ills

That the gravest danger confronting the American republic is "the palsy and poison of disinterest" in public and political matters, was declared by Professor Zueblin to the legislative committee on Constitutional Amendments at the State House today.

"The grave lack of interest in public affairs stands forth as a menacing danger," he said. "It results largely from the fact that the real minorities of people feel that they are not represented in our halls of legislation and it can be overcome in this State by adopting a system of proportional representation which will give to all people an expression of their ideas in government."

Professor Zueblin, Professor Arthur N. Holcombe of Harvard, George W. Coleman, former president of the Boston City Council and organizer of the Ford Hall Forum, declared to the committee that the feeling of unrest and discontent will be greatly alleviated when the people are given this system which will assure them proper representation.

WOMEN FOR MOVEMENT.

Miss Anna Weinstock, recording the 15,000 members of the Women's Progressive Union League in favor of it, said that proportional representation was tried out with success at the last national convention of the affiliated bodies and that the minorities of membership were given adequate representation.

Charles J. Hodsdon, chairman of the legislative Committee of the Massachusetts State Federation of American Federation of Labor, and P. Harry Fennessy of the Boston Central Labor Union, recorded their individual support of the plan and asked that the hearing be continued in order that they could obtain instructions from their organizations in favor of proportional legislation.

Charles Sumner Bird said in a letter to the committee that he regarded proportional representation "as important as other election reforms, such as initiative, referendum and direct primary."

"When once comprehended," he said, "it will take its place with those measures that have tended to increase the influence and power of the people."

Senator George R. Curran and other members of the Legislature recorded their support of the movement.

The hearing was held on the bill filed for proportional representation by Grenville S. MacFarland. The hearing was conducted by Representative Nilhs D. Sone of Boston, who filed the petition.

TO PERFECT THE SYSTEM.

"It is intended," said Mr. Sone, "to perfect the system of representative government, the basis of our democracy. Thousands and thousands of our people are disfranchised. In fact, in triangular contests, the majority are often left without representation. Under the present system it is hopeless for Democrats to vote in certain Republican districts and for Republicans to vote in certain Democratic districts.

"Finding themselves without representation, the people often lose faith id the government. The purpose of this plan is to give minorities proper representation."

Mr. MacFarland said the system had been practiced with success in Switzerland, Denmark, Sweden, Holland and Poland, that it was recently adopted in France, that it was made a prominent place in the constitution of the new republic of Germany and that it is under consideration in England.

"If there had been proportional representation in Germany and Austria there would have been no war," he said.

NO CHANCE FOR SOME.

"The apathy, lessitude, discontent of a great many or our people," said Mr. Coleman, "is because their views find no expression under our present system of elections and government."

"Our present system was handed down to us by the King of England," said Professor Zueblin. "The first issue of the revolution was representation. Then came representation based on property holdings. We have gotten away from some of those restrictions, but we find the people only generally represented and generally interested. People say, 'What's the use?'

"The world is aflame. How can there be anything but lawlessness when there are so many laws to violate of which the people know nothing about, because they have felt they were not properly represented? In two years we pass 25,000 laws.

"Few people come up here to teh State House. Invariably, they are the same people. A great many of our people have a nasty contempt for public officials. We can Americanize them by a system of proportional representation."

Professor Holcombe said that "even at hour time" it may be that people who were born in foreign countries will constitute the majority of the electorate and will have the reins of government entirely in their hands. "We will want proportional representation then," he added.

He said that the best system of Americanizing the immigrant is to get him into familiar contact with our elecaion machinery. "He is familiar with the proportional system in his own country," he said, "and Americanizing would not take so long."

Widow Fights Divorced Wife for $25,000,000

©by BAIN NEWS SERVICE

Mrs. Marie Marbeck Harkness Cowan, who had divorced the late Harry S. Harkness, and now seeks to break the will that left $25,000,000 to his second wife.

New York, Feb. 17.—Two young and beautiful society women became the principals in one of the strangest will contests ever started in this State when Mrs. Marie Marbeck Harkness Cowan, who divorced the late Harry S. Harkness, multimillionaire yachtsman, in November, 1917, began proceedings to break the Harkness will, which left practically $25,000,000 to his second wife, Mrs. Florence Steuber Gaines Harkness.

Harkness, who died January 23, 1919, signed a will, said to have been hurriedly drawn, few hours before his death in a handwriting so nearly illegible that three distinct efforts were reported to have been made by him to attach his name. There was no dispute as to the instrument's authenticity until the present contest, however, and it was admitted to probate March 27, 1919.

Mrs. Cowan, who married Kenneth Cowan, quietly, at Greenwich, Ct., July 17, 1918, seeks to overturn that $12,000 a year alimony from Harkness. She claims that he had no legal right to make the will she is contesting, as on his death she executed a mutual will in 1913, under which contract she claims the big estate. Thirteen months after his wife divorced him, Harkness married Mrs. Florence Steuber Gaines.

Speaking for his wife, Cowan says: "Mrs. Cowan is in the right in this suit. Mrs. Cowan's complaint will be filed in a few days. It will set forth the facts of the mutual contract with which she and Harkness legally executed in 1909. We shall present proof that Harkness was practically dying when he scrawled his initials on this will. Two sisters, Mrs. Ogden M. Edwards, Jr., of Pittsburgh, and Mrs. A. Kingsley Macomber of Pasadena, Cal., will serve as witnesses. We have hope to prove that Mrs. Cowan holds the only legal will of Mr. Harkness."

SOCIAL LID GOES ON TOMORROW

Lent to Open With Distribution of Ashes by Catholic and Episcopal Churches

Lent begins tomorrow, Ash Wednesday. The season of penitence will be ushered in with religious services in all Catholic and Episcopal churches and with a general slackening of social activity.

Ashes will be blessed and distributed in all the Catholic churches of the world at morning services, also in the evening. Many of the Catholic churches in Boston will also have afternoon services for school children. Cardinal O'Connell will officiate at the blessing of the ashes in the Cathedral of the Holy Cross.

Special religious services will be held during the day at St. Paul's Cathedral, Episcopal. At the Church of St. John the Evangelist ashes will be used. In the other Episcopal churches the usual Lenten services will be the order of the day.

Many social events are scheduled for tonight, to cide the lovers of dancing and parties over the socially arid forty days that are coming.

On its purely material side, Lent does not bring to the family head the joy it was wont to do. The lowly fish has entered the blue-ribbon class as far as price is concerned. There is little to be saved by a change of diet.

MARTENS URGES RULE BY FORCE

'Dictatorship of the Proletariat' Aim of Envoy, Grilled by Senators

By International News Service.

Washington, Feb. 17.—The dictatorship of the proletariat as a "world force" seeking the establishment of the Russian Soviet form of government everywhere was urged today by Ludwig C. A. K. Martens, Bolshevist envoy to the United States, before the sub-committee of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee designated to investigate his activities in this country.

Reappearance of Martens before the sub-committee, of which Senator George H. Moses, Republican, of New Hampshire is chairman, led to his being grilled for the first time by counsel for Attorney-General Wade Ellis of Ohio, retained as counsel for the investigators.

Martens spoke vigorously he and his associates were seeking to overthrow the United States government by force and violence. He was only trying to establish friendly relations between the American and Russian peoples and to restore trade and commercial relations between the United States and Russia, Martens reiterated.

"Do you believe in the dictatorship of the proletariat?" Ellis asked.

"I do. In Russia it is a fact," Martens answered.

"Do you believe the dictatorship of the proletariat in the established form of world order shall be brought about by force, by revolution?"

"That is the general, I believe in force against force, in violence against violence."

"Do you believe in overthrowing this government by force?" interposed Senator Brandegee.

"I do not say that. I believe the Soviet is the best form of government and is the real government of the people, of the rule of the majority over the minority."

"Do you believe there should be no revolution unless decreed by the majority?"

"If the minority tries to block the way to the rule of the majority, I believe in the use of force."

"Do you want your communist friends in this country and in Russia to know you don't believe in the dictatorship of the proletariat unless it is the form of the majority?"

"I do."

Ellis quoted Trotzky as urging, while still in New York, the overthrow of the "dirty and rotten government of the United States."

"That is more of the dirty lies that have been told about Trotzky," Martens said.

WASTE BILLION ON U. S. PLANES

Baker Charged With Full Knowledge of Defective Aircraft Sent to Front

Washington, Feb. 17.—In the report of the subcommittee on aviation of the special House committee appointed to investigate the cost of the war, just made public, were these outstanding assertions:

"During the nineteen months of war the War Department spent $1,051,000,000 on aviation, but sent to the front only 213 "clumsy, utterly dangerous" De Haviland four observation planes.

"American aviators at the front received only 740 planes, the additional 527 having been begged, bought or borrowed from our allies."

Secretary Baker and Director Ryan are charged with "full knowledge of the defective and dangerous character" of the De Haviland plane, 4,000 of which were built in this country at a cost of $50,000,000, but few of which got overseas.

The War Department spent $22,000,000 on Bristol and Standards J, machines which later "were scrapped as worthless."

Colonel E. A. Deeds, in charge of airplane production up to January, 1919, should have been court-martialed as recommended by Judge Hughes.

"A close association existed between Director Ryan and the Siems-Drey-Stevens-Curtis Corporation of New York, which had $30,000,000 in contracts.

Colonel B. B. Disque, in charge of spruce production, "illegally spent $4,000,000 of government funds," and, according to the committee's expert accountant, "wasted more than $20,000,000 as based on the contract price of spruce as produced in 1918."

Then will follow a solemn high requiem mass at St. Andrew's Church, Forest Hills, at 10 o'clock. RESENT READING AS ENVOY TO WASHINGTON

London, Feb. 17.—A strong attack against the proposal to send Earl Reading, Lord Chief Justice, to Washington as a British Ambassador was printed in the Morning Post today. The appointment would make it necessary for Reading is sent to the United States it would be a "calamity," says the Morning Post. The newspaper refers back to the sensational litigation in England over the attempt to sell government-lease stock in which the Lord Chief Justice was involved.

CONFIRM NAMING OF CHELSEA CIVILIANS

In spite of a protest from the post of the American Legion, the Chelsea Board of Aldermen has confirmed the appointment of twelve firemen by Mayor Brselh, ten of whom are ex-service men and two civilians. The board acted in accordance with a letter from State Secretary Leo A. Spillane, American Legion, sustaining the action of the mayor.

Prisoners Must Witness Another Hanging

Chicago, Feb. 17.—The prisoners confined in the county jail will witness another hanging. Despite many expressions of disapproval at Sheriff Peters' action in recently compelling the inmates to witness the death by hanging of a fellow prisoner, the sheriff is planning a similar spectacle for Friday, when Jack O'Brien will be hanged.

The number who will witness the execution is about 200, it is said.

"If capital punishment means anything at all," said Sheriff Peters, "it is a deterrent to further crime and an example to others. The very close it is intended to reach are those confined in the jail."

It will be remembered that at the hanging of Raffealo Durrage about a month ago, the enforced spectators were impressed only to the point of demanding, "When do we eat?"

12 IN CONTESTS IN BROOKINE

Eight Candidates for Selectmen, Four for Auditors, at Today's Caucus

Brookline's political teapot reached the boiling point today with the annual caucus at which candidates for the offices of selectmen and town auditors figured. The only contests in sight aspire to the five selectmen's seats and four to the three positions as auditors.

The recent appointment of Payson Dana to the Civil Service Commission created a vacancy in the ranks of selectmen. The four present selectmen are candidates, and for the fifth position James F. Quinn, James W. Barry, George F. Baldwin and G. Loring Briggs are aspirants.

Quinn, a former member of the board, has a host of friends and there are many who predict his success at the polls. Barry has made a hard campaign and is confident. Both Briggs and Baldwin seem certain of success. If all win some of the members of the present board must go into retirement.

James V. Duffy, a prominent member of the Boston insurance fraternity, appears to lead in the race for the four places as auditor, with David B. Church is another candidate. The vacancy is created by the withdrawal of James W. Barry to make the fight for selectmen.

Captain John T. Comerford, who led the 104th Machine Gun Company in France, will once more be elected to the board of assessors. He held that office when he resigned to go to France and now returns through the resignation of Arthur J. Caulfield.

According to testimony he came home drunk and struck his father, No. 30 Whitefield street, with a poker, fracturing the skull, the police say. The case was heard on the advice given by the elder Weyman.

FIRED SHOT AT CLOSE RANGE

Burke Wounded by Revolver Held Few Inches From Body, Says Expert

Skowhegan, Me., Feb. 17.—Dr. F. N. Whittier, pathologist and bacteriologist, testified today that the revolver which caused the wounds in the leg of John A. Burke, charged with the murder of Nelson W. Bartley, was held within a few inches of Burke's body.

Dr. Whittier arrived at this conclusion, he said, under cross-examination, from tests made with shots fired into Burke's trousers.

It is the State's contention that Burke inflicted the leg wound to remove suspicion that he might have killed the Jackman Hotel proprietor.

Bartley, the murdered man, died comparatively wealthy, according to the inventory of his estate, just filed. A feature of this is in the fact that several witnesses and others connected with the trial are indebted to the estat, hrough notes and mortgages. Deputy Sheriff Henry Armstrong is a debtor to the amount of $400; a mortgage on real estate is held for $3,000 and a note for the remainder.

Bartley's estate is valued at $61,565.67, of which more than half is for loans of small amounts to Jackman people. He had accounts in 7 banks or more banks, including $3,000 in Boston institutions.

One item in the inventory reads: "Mortgage against John Burke, $557.51"; another is a mortgage of $4,000 against Omer Poulet, owner of the Line House, the total on the Canadian Maine line, the nearest "wet" spot to Jackman.

PUBLIC'S MONEY FOR MINERS

Official Says Consumers Are Paying Recent Advance in Wages of Unions

Washington, Feb. 17.—"Increased wages granted soft coal miners by agreement with Attorney-General Palmer falls on the public," Frank Bergan, representing the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey, told the Senate Interstate Commerce subcommittee today.

The increased wages amounting to 14 per cent, have increased the price of coal 30 cents a ton, which "increase must be assessed on the consumers," Bergan said.

"If we cannot assess the public our credit depreciates and the company is unable to develop."

"Such a situation retards the industrial development of the States, does it not?" Senator Freilnghuysen asked.

"It certainly does," Bergan answered. "There is no place where we can protect against the burden except this committee," Bergan answered.

BILL FAVORED BY LEGION WOULD REVOLUTIONIZE WAR RISK ACT

VETERANS DEMAND CONGRESS PASS WASON MEASURE

This is the fifth of a series of articles of unusual appeal to every ex-service man and woman and of great importance to every legion post. They should interest the beneficiaries, dependents, relatives and friends of soldiers, sailors and marines. The next article will appear tomorrow.

By CHARLES O. POWER.

The American Legion demands the passage of the Wason bill by the Congress. The War Risk Bureau insists that it should be enacted by this Congress. What is the Wason bill? It is the legislative child of Edward M. Wason of Nashua, N. H., representing the third district of that State in Congress.

Its foster parents are the American Legion and the War Risk Bureau. Since its birth the latter has given it a course of treatment that has greatly increased its strength and vigor.

In a preceding installment there was a promise of a thorough analysis of it. Here is a careful comparative study of the original war risk act, the Sweet act and the Wason bill, recording just what the legion expects to accomplish, to benefit ex-service people and to improve bureau work.

The desire and policy of the War Risk Insurance Bureau are to obviate as far as is reasonably possible any expense whatever to the soldier or his dependents in the matter of collecting what is due him under the War Risk Insurance act. By the original act it was provided that when a payment is due a mentally incompetent person it must be made to his guardian or curator.

ELIMINATES GUARDIAN.

This necessitated having a guardian appointed where none had already qualified, and entailed a substantial expense to the beneficiary. By the Sweet act it is provided that if any person entitled to receive payments shall be an inmate of an asylum for the insane, maintained by the United States or any other public authority, and no guardian or curator of the property of such person shall have been appointed, the funds due the inmate shall, under the order of the director of the bureau, be paid either to the chief executive officer of the asylum, to be used by him for the maintenance and comfort of such inmate, or to the inmate's wife, minor children or dependent parents, in the order named.

The Wason bill contains a still better provision. It is, in substance, that, if the person entitled to payments be or become mentally incompetent—not necessarily committed to an asylum—and has no guardian or curator, payments may, in accordance with regulations, be made either to a relative of the incompetent or to such other person as the director may select, to be used exclusively for the benefit of the incompetent and subject to the duty of accounting to the bureau, or to the wife, minor children or dependent parents of the incompetent.

LIMITATIONS ABOLISHED.

The War Risk Insurance act forbade the assignment of any of its benefits. The Sweet act modified this to the extent of permitting the beneficiary of converted insurance to assign his or her interest in such insurance to another member of the permitted class of beneficiaries. The Wason bill abolishes all limitations upon the permitted class, and provides that converted insurance may be assigned by the insured to any one, but not by a beneficiary other than the insured. This latter qualification is thought wise as a measure of protection to widows, especially, against ill-advised contraction of debt.

The War Risk Insurance act provides that the discharge or dismissal of any person from the military or naval forces on the ground that he is an enemy alien, conscientious objector, or a deserter, or as guilty of mutiny, treason, spying, or any offense involving moral turpitude, or wilful and persistent misconduct, shall terminate any insurance based on the life of such person, and shall bar all rights to compensation or insurance.

The Wason bill modifies this by providing, as to converted insurance, that the cash surrender value, if any, on the date of such discharge shall be paid the insured.

WOULD RESTORE PAYMENTS.

It is deemed unnecessarily harsh that the law should, even in cases such as some of the above, forfeit what the man's money had purchased prior to his offence.

There are quite a number of cases before the bureau in which the soldier, at the time of his induction, stated that he had no wife or child. This statement was made in order to avoid a compulsory allotment of his pay. Later, and while the soldier was still in the service, application for a family allowance was made by a woman claiming to be the soldier's wife. However, before the necessary investigation could be made and her claim established the soldier was discharged.

Under the law as it now stands no family allowance can be paid in such cases, despite their merit, because of a provision which says that "family allowances for members of class A shall be paid, only if, and while, a compulsory allotment is made to a member or members of such class." The soldier being no longer in the service at the time the facts essential to entitle the wife to an allowance were ascertained, no checkage for allotment could be made and, hence, because of the provision above quoted, no allowance could be paid. The Sweet bill contained a section taking care of cases of this kind, but the Senate eliminated it. The Wason bill contains a similar provision.

The Sweet act provided quite substantial increases over the old act in the amount of compensation payable in cases of disability. The Wason bill compares with the Sweet act as follows:

COMPARISON OF ACTS.

	SWEET ACT.
Sub-section (1).
(a) If the disabled person has neither wife nor child living	$80.00
(b) If wife and no child	90.00
(c) If wife and one child	99.00
(d) If wife and two or more children	108.00
(e) If no wife but one child	90.00
With $5 additional for each child.
(f) If dependent father or mother, $10 for each.

	WASON BILL.
(1). (a) If the disabled person has neither wife nor child living	$80.00
(b) If wife and no child	90.00
(c) If wife and one child	100.00
(d) If wife and two children	112.50
(e) If wife and three or more children	112.50
With $5 for each additional child above two.
(f) If no wife but one child	90.00
(g) If no wife but two children	92.50
(h) If no wife but three children	100.00
(i) If no wife but four children	110.00
With $5 for each additional child.
(j) If dependent father or mother, $10 for each.

Furthermore, the Sweet act provides for the payment of $100 a month while the disability is rated as total and permanent, and $200 a month in cases of double total and permanent disability. The Wason bill provides that, in addition to those sums, the several amounts for dependents prescribed in sub-division (b) to (j), above, shall be allowed.

The Wason bill further provides that the enumeration of certain specific injuries as constituting total permanent disability shall not be construed to exclude any other injury or disease, which, in the opinion of the director, is deemed to have resulted in the total permanent disability of the person in question.

This provision is desirable as removing all doubt as to the authority of the bureau to recognize a person who is disabled, for instance, on account of tuberculosis as being totally and permanently disabled.

BUREAU TO PAY COURT EXPENSES.

The Wason bill adds a sub-section to the War Risk Insurance act to the effect that the bureau may pay the expenses of witnesses in attending the trial of a case, where the plaintiff has assigned his cause of action against a third party to the United States. The bureau has a goodly number of cases where actions for damages have already been begun by soldiers in State courts, and it is deemed best to allow them to continue to be prosecuted in such courts, but the law makes no provision for the payment of expenses of witnesses where the trial is in any other than a court of the United States. It is clearly desirable that it should, and the Wason bill so provides.

One of the most, if not the most, radical change provided in the Wason bill is the removal of all limitations upon the permitted class of beneficiaries of contract insurance. It provides for the repeal of all provisions of the War Risk Insurance act, or amendments there, which limit the persons or classes of persons who may be designated by the insured as beneficiaries of insurance.

PAYABLE IN LUMP SUM.

It provides, further, that a person who was entitled to apply for insurance, but who did not do so, or did not apply for the maximum amount permitted by the act, shall, upon compliance with regulations, be granted insurance or additional insurance up to the maximum. It is believed that many men refrained from taking insurance, because, as the law read before its amendment by the Sweet Act, the permitted class of beneficiaries was quite a restricted one and that many, for the same reason, took less than otherwise they would have taken. It is thought to be fair to make insurance available to such persons now.

The Sweet bill contained several provisions for the payment of the commuted value of the monthly installments of insurance. Most of them failed of passage. The Wason bill provides that, if no beneficiary designated for yearly renewable term insurance survives the insured, then there shall be paid to the estate of the insured an amount equal to the commuted value of the monthly installments. It further provides that, if the beneficiary of term insurance dies after the death of the insured, but before all of the 240 monthly installments have been paid, then the installments shall be paid to such person or persons (not restricted to the permitted class) as would, under the laws of the insured's place of residence, be entitled to his personal property in case of intestacy; and that, if that class of persons be exhausted before all the installments have been paid, then the commuted value of the remaining installments shall be paid to the estate of the last surviving person of the class. There are still other provisions for the payment of the commuted value.

The Sweet act provides that converted insurance may, at the option of the insured, be made payable either in one sum or in installments for thirty-six months or more. The Wason bill provides for this option as to all contract insurance.

PROVIDES MEDICAL CARE.

Another very substantial advantage to service men provided for in the Wason bill is that the bureau shall relieve from the payment of premiums on renewable term insurance, (a) those who are receiving hospital care under the bureau, during the period they are receiving such care, (b) those who are receiving vocational training, during the period of such training, and (c) those who are temporarily totally disabled, during the period of such total disability.

Still another is that the bureau shall provide, without charge therefor, hospital, dental, medical and surgical care and treatment for all honorably discharged commissioned officers and enlisted men, irrespective of the service-origin or of any aggravation of their disabilities, provided application is made within one year from the date of the man's discharge or from the date the act goes into effect, whichever is the later.

And, finally, the Wason bill provides that payments of insurance made on account of the total permanent disability of the insured shall not diminish the amount that would have been payable at the death of the insured had no payments been made for such disability.

Dubs Wilson "Patron of Unrest"

By Universal Service.

New York, Feb. 17.—President Wilson was characterized as a "patron of unrest" by Henry A. Wise Wood, who spoke before the National Civic Federation.

"Your problem goes from the lower East Side to the White House," Mr. Wood said, "where sits the world's most exalted instigator of social revolt, the patron of these people and the patron of unrest."

Mr. Wood's statement was severely criticised by the federation and on a motion by Dr. Talcott Williams, former Director of the Pulitzer School of Journalism, it was expunged from the record.

LAUD AMERICAN FOR DEAN AID

Selectmen Also Thank Bartlett for His "Courteous and Gentlemanly" Treatment

East Jaffrey, N. H., Feb. 17.—In addition to statements given to the newspapers, in which they resented Governor Bartlett's attempt in the Dean murder case, to "think for us," the Selectmen of this town sent the Governor the following letter:

East Jaffrey, N. H.
Feb 12, 1920.

"Hon. John H. Bartlett, Governor,
Concord, N. H.

"You Excellency—After thinking over our conference with you yesterday, we feel that an apology is due your excellency from us, the Selectmen of Jaffrey, for intruding a matter case upon you when your mind was so occupied with defending our State from the aspersions of foreign newspapers.

"We were much impressed with the courage you displayed in castigating your victims when you were unwilling to allow them an opportunity to reply and feel that under like circumstances you could have conquered the forces of the Boches single-handed.

"SUCKER STUFF.

"We were very sorry to have occasioned the flood of your eloquence which, we fear, will have serious consequences and which it will ultimately be found will have manifested themselves in one of two ways: (1) If the flood went into the Merrimac River it may have the effect of destroying all the suckers so that the future supply must necessarily come from Portsmouth; (2) If it went to the laundry the result must be such a supply as will make the clothes in the vicinity of Concord yield bounteously, thus reducing the cost of high living.

"We are very glad to learn from you that the Boston American is leading us around. It may surprise you to learn that this paper is the only one which has ever attempted in a whole-hearted way, to be of assistance to us in this matter and that that assistance has been rendered to us without expense to us by the town of Jaffrey.

"The publicity given by this paper, in our opinion, has not disgraced the State of New Hampshire, or its people, who are now in suspicion. Only politicians who may have been susceptible to influence may have been besmirched.

"Attorney Harry N. Guterman is under our retainer, not the Boston American; he has never been employed by that paper and was introduced by us to their representative.

COURAGE COMMENDED.

"Although he and we seem to have been thoroughly rebuffed by your excellency, you may be interested to know that our intentions are the same as heretofore and our courage is good.

"In closing we wish to again thank you for the courteous and gentlemanly manner in which we were received by you, the assistance you rendered us and to assure you that we will not in the future try to 'put anything over' on you, corrupt you or lead you astray.

"Wishing you all the success and prosperity you deserve, we are

"Your respectfully,
(signed) WILLIAM J. COOLIDGE,
PETER E. HOGAN,
EDWARD C. BOYNTON."

Mr. Leary is of the opinion that he paid his tax when he cashed in for his real estate taxes, but he's going to look the matter up nevertheless.

BELIEVE BARRY WAS SUICIDE

Police Have Abandoned Theory That Young Milford Man Was Murdered

Milford, Feb. 17.—Robbery as a motive for the death of John P. Barry, who was found frozen in the ice of Round Pond Saturday morning, has been practically eliminated. That it was a case of suicide is the theory now advanced. The State police and the local authorities are now working on the supposition that Barry may have been temporarily deranged.

The circumstances surrounding the case, according to the authorities, would not be impossible for a man suffering temporary mental trouble. The wire with which the feet were bound, the police believe, could have been placed there by Barry after he waded into the water. A shoe string loosely tied was found across the knuckles. Medical Examiner W. J. Clarke and Chief of Police Murphy are awaiting the result of the examination of the stomach before making any statement.

The draining of Round Pond, in which the body was found, resulted in no tangible clue. A small white cloth stained with spots which the police believe to be blood was found in the snow on the shores of the pond.

Another element of mystery was added to the case today, when the police learned that on Thursday, the day before his mysterious death, Barry refused to leave his home.

George Barry stated that he examined his brother's body before burial and that he found several marks about the head and hands.

The $2,500 reward offered for the apprehension of the supposed slayer is bringing many private detectives into the case.

FR. O'CONOR TO AID CHARITABLE DIRECTOR

Cardinal O'Connell has appointed the Rev. George P. O'Connor curate at St. Francis de Sales Church, Roxbury, to be assistant to the Rev. Michael J. Scanlan, S. T. L., director of the Catholic Charitable Bureau. Father O'Connor will be transferred to the cathedral staff. He served as a chaplain in the 301st Regiment during the war. The appointment is effective today.

Mayor Bars Cleanup Until Next Thaw

No clean streets until the next thaw.

Owing to the severity of the cold snap which set in Sunday night, Mayor Peters has decided to delay his call to the men and boys of Boston to turn to and dig the city out of the snow. If had been his intention to issue the call today, which would turn the entire male citizenship of the city into a huge snow shoveling brigade to aid in the losing fight being waged.

"I will issue a call for all able-bodied male citizens to turn to and dig the city out just as soon as a thaw sets in, which will make shoveling possible," said the Mayor.

MORE COAL IS NEEDED NOW

Unless Situation Improves More Plants Will Be Forced to Close

ceived it was declared that many industries throughout New England would be forced to close, throwing thousands of employes out of work. At the present time, it was stated, a comparatively large number of factories are shut down.

But little relief was offered by the weather man, who predicted unsettled conditions for tomorrow with occasional snow and rising temperature with fresh southwest to west winds.

The United suffered severely from the extreme cold early today, and three traffic tie ups were caused by freezing air brakes. These delays occurred at Sullivan, City and Scollay squares, while an East Boston car was held up at the State street station in the tunnel for fifteen minutes.

At the Andrews school, Genesee street, South End, it was found necessary to call on the Public Works Department to clear the streets before coal could be delivered. Similar conditions obtained at one of the portable schools near the Cc Hinckley school on Common street, where the coal was carried in bags for 200 yards.

UP TO WASHINGTON.

Business men are today awaiting the results of the Governors' action in appealing to Washington. Secretary of the Navy Daniels received a wire from the Governors requesting navy colliers to enable free shipments here, the Shipping Board has been appealed to for more ships to rush fuel to this district, and Federal Director of Railroads Hines has been asked to modify the priority orders which restrict shipment of coal to New England except by rail.

Governor Coolidge presided at the conference, which was held in his office. State Fuel Administrator James J. Storrow, who had just returned from Washington, outlined the situation to the delegates. Others present at the conference were Governor Carl E. Milliken of Maine, Governor John H. Bartlett of New Hampshire, Governor Percival W. Clement of Vermont, State Fuel Administrator Malcolm Chase of Rhode Island, representing Governor Beeckman, and Fuel Administrator Thomas W. E. Russell of Connecticut, representing Governor Marcus Holland. Collector of the Port Edmund Billings was also present.

The resolution sent to the Shipping Board is as follows:

BOARD IS THANKED.

"Resolved, the consideration which the Shipping Board has given to the requirements of New England in the past is very much appreciated, and they are entitled to the thanks of the people of New England for the assistance they have rendered. It is apparent that the railroad facilities are not adequate to supply us with coal under present stress of weather, and with the present facilities this inadequacy is very much intensified, all of which makes it more necessary to depend on water transportation. The number of ships provided for this by you at the present time does not appear to be sufficient. It is respectfully urged that every effort be made to provide more ships in order to give relief to what is growing into a condition of being the greatest shortage New England has ever experienced."

Fuel conditions have been aggravated by the partial transportation tieup caused by the recent snowstorm, which left Northern New England traffic conditions badly crippled.

PLANS TO FORCE WILSON TO ACT

Brandegee Would Keep President From 'Pigeonholing' League Treaty

By International News Service.

Washington, Feb. 17.—Former Secretary Lansing's resignation and the long chain of events leading up to it, including his disagreement with President Wilson at the Peace Conference, probably will be injected into the Peace Treaty debate in the Senate.

Senator Brandegee, Republican, of Connecticut, proposes to offer a new reservation that upon the failure of the President to deposit the treaty at Paris within thirty days after its ratification by the Senate the act of ratification shall be considered nullified and the treaty "dead" so far as the United States is concerned.

The ostensible purpose of the suggested Brandegee reservation is to force the President's hand in the event an agreement is reached eventually on the League reservations which will bring about ratification and to prevent him, in case he finds the agreement unacceptable to him, from thrusting the treaty in a pigeon hole of his desk or "carrying it around in his pocket."

It is apparently intended to compel the President to either deposit or reject the treaty on the basis of the League reservations, to which he is opposed, instead of merely pocketing or pocketing it.

But its real purpose is believed to be to provoke a debate that will swing around the Lansing resignation and the President's reason for accepting it—Lansing's "usurpation" of the Presidential prerogatives by calling Cabinet meetings while the President was incapacitated for four or five months.

Brandegee and other anti-administration Senators will urge that "if only as a precautionary measure," the Senate in the event of its ratifying the treaty should adopt a proviso that the President must act on the treaty within thirty days after he receives it from the Senate.

Brandegee and other senators intend to seize any opportunity to "rip the lid" off of the Wilson-Lansing affair. One of the rumors which was to be aired on the floor of the Senate was that Mr. Lansing was removed because he had been in favor of Vice-President Marshall taking over the duties of the President during his illness.

two years in the employ of the road, became aware that arrest was imminent when the authorities searched his home. He donned his best clothes, obtained a thirty-two calibre revolver and, standing before a mirror, emptied it into his body.

The alleged robberies were unearthed by railroad police and Framingham officers. The nine men arrested were arraigned in Framingham Court today and held in $1,000 each.

They were George Seeley, Herbert L. Langelon, Otto B. Hodges and Frank L. Phipps of Framingham, Herman Winch of Holliston, Edward L. Martin of Nowell, George H. Vose of Natick and Fred L. Moon of Chelmsford.

Willis was deacon in the Framingham church. The other railroad men arrested were highly respected in their communities. Search by the authorities today revealed paper, dress goods, coal and other commodities to the value of thousands of dollars on the premises of the Willis home, police said.

Hurting Corns Peel Right Off!

"Gets-It" Loosens Them So They Lift Off In a Jiffy.

Your calluses and corns are only hanging on for a little while. They are doomed the moment you make up your mind to let "Gets-It" get them. Off they come—cleanly, smoothly and painlessly — as soon as "Gets-It" gets in its work on them.

A few drops on a corn or a callus, and your part is done. You can forget the corn or callus then (because there will be no more twinges) until it gets so loosened that you pick it off with your fingers. It's just that easy. It's a shame to suffer pain and inconvenience when its source is so readily and easily removed. You've put up with that corn or callus long enough now. There's a limit. Show it who is boss by getting "Gets-It" after it. Never fails—can't fail.

"Gets-It," the only sure, guaranteed, money-back corn remover, costs but a trifle at any drug store. Mfd. by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

BABY GAINED NEW STRENGTH

Father John's Medicine Built Him Up After Serious Illness

"After a serious illness 3 years ago my boy was left very weak and delicate and would get the croup very easily, so we started to give him Father John's Medicine and he improved as you see him in this photo (age five years), which we are proud of. This is his latest photo, as he is now six years old and we still give him Father John's Medicine when he needs it. I would advise mothers never to be without Father John's Medicine." (Signed) Harry D. Walker, 587 South 14th St., Newark, N. J.

To build new flesh and strength after illness Father John's Medicine is of great value because the pure food elements it contains are easily taken up by a weakened system. No alcohol, no dangerous drugs. Has been used for over sixty years.

A Single Application Banishes Every Hair

(The Modern Beauty)

Here is how any woman can easily and quickly remove objectionable, hairy growths without possible injury to the skin; Make a paste with some powdered delatone and water, apply to hairy surface and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. This is a painless, inexpensive method and, excepting where the growth is unusually thick, a single application is enough. You should, however, be careful to get genuine delatone.—Advertisement.

YOU DON'T NEED A FINE COMB. If you use Kil-ve for your children's heads for sanitary reasons, your domestics should use it, too. Absolutely harmless, non-oily, non-sticky and doesn't interfere with color or growth of hair. Kil-ve destroys all vermin, and the eggs or nits that cling to the hair. Buy it to-day at drug stores—35c., 60c. and $1.25.

Don't be ashamed to ask for it.

A Sure Way to End Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and after four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and be a hundred times better.—Advertisement.

Removing Ugly Hairs—Entirely New Method

(Actually Removes the Roots)

The question is often asked whether really permanent or efficient hair remover exists, and the answer has heretofore been very unsatisfactory. Fortunately, there's a new and remarkable process that really removes every hair, root and all! It is different from and far better than electrolysis or the razor, or any other depilatory, the razor, or any other method. If you'd like to try it, just get an ounce of delatone from your druggist, follow the simple instructions and with your own eyes see the hair roots come out! Hairs are removed quickly, easily, leaving the skin perfectly smooth and hair-free.

Delatone is non-irritating, odorless, and so harmless you could eat it!—Advertisement.

RAPS 'SPINELESS NEWSPAPERS'

Editor Pew Cites American as an Independent; Lauds Hearst Editorial

"Spineless newspapers" were flayed by Marlin E. Pew, editor and general manager of the International News Service, in an address at the City Club Forum, in which he also branded Dr. Grayson's reports of President Wilson's illness as unjustifiable, and made other noteworthy statements.

He characterized a recent editorial of William Randolph Hearst concerning fraudulent news as "one of the most important documents of the times," and lauded the "little newspapers which speak in the language of the common people."

The report that the Bolsheviste had nationalized Russian women he stigmatized as "an infamous canard," and he was interrupted by applause when he assailed those interests which would "tear down the edifice of free popular government which the Russians have framed for themselves in their own country."

He attributed to pro-British sources the propaganda against the present Russian government, and pointed to our attitude of a few years ago, "when we blithely condemned Czarism and adorned ourselves with the title of friends of popular government for every nation."

CITES BOSTON AMERICAN.

"The venal newspapers which fail to publish the names of those who exploit the public, because of subsidies," he charged with being guilty of "a capital crime of journalism." He continued: "They can't get away with that kind of thing indefinitely, however. Ultimately the freest newspapers will show the largest circulation." He gave the Boston American as an example of independent and fearless journalism in this city.

The anti-sedition bill, now under consideration in Congress, met with his censure, as he declared that "the newspapers of the country are laboring under enough restrictions now. The projected law would seemingly mean the death of free newspaper editing in this country."

Few, who during the war held the office of publicity director for the War Department, also took a fling at the elements in New York State who engineered the attempt to prevent Socialist members of the Legislature from taking their seats. "You might think," he observed with some sarcasm, "that men elected to a seat in legislative body had a right to sit there. If these men were guilty of treason, why were they not arrested and brought to trial for this supreme offence long before?"

DECRIED BY DR. GRAYSON.

He hailed Hearst's protest against false news as "most significant," coming from one of the greatest editors in the United States today.

"Some news editors," he said, "are little better than slaves, obliged to leave out news. How long would political crimes be allowed to go unpunished if all the newspapers dared to tell their readers the truth?"

For the "inoffensive" newspapers he professed scorn, and lamented their waste of excellent white paper. The "greed of prominent people which prompts them to conceal facts from the masses" was also condemned unmeasurably, and the malice of "denatured news" was depicted by the speaker. "Such sheets are without heart or soul," he asserted. "They are dominated by a base commercialism which fears to hurt any possible source of revenue."

Of the denials of Senator Moses' reports on the President's condition which appeared in the press of the country he said, "We were deceived. Dr. Grayson told us personally, at the White House, that the statements of Senator Moses were untrue. The reporters, trusting the word of the doctor who was with the chief executive every hour, published his declaration." In answer to a question, he expressed it as his opinion that Dr. Grayson was emphatically not justified in deceiving the press and people as to the actual state of President Wilson.

MUST APPROVE HIGHER PRICE FOR USE OF GAS

Judge Crosby of the Supreme Court has ordered a writ of mandamus to issue to compel the Department of Public Utilities to approve a contract between the Boston Consolidated Gas Company and the New England Fuel & Transportation Company whereby the price of gas to be furnished by the latter company to the former should be increased from 29½ to 35 cents per 1,000 cubic feet. Judge Crosby says that when the gas and electric light commissioners found that the price was less than gas could be manufactured for it was the duty of the commissioners to have approved the contract.

He is charged with having stolen $190 worth of clothing and a watch of Joseph Dy on May 10 and $52 worth of jewelry in another.

CHARGE MOTORMAN HIT DEAF PEDESTRIAN

Charged with assaulting an old man for walking on the car tracks, Edwin Cushman, a Boston Elevated motorman, living on Warren street, Roxbury, was fined $10 in the Dorchester court. He appealed. The alleged victim was Michael H. Fenton of No. 59 Norfolk street, Dorchester. According to testimony, Fenton was deaf and did not hear Cushman's gong, and the latter left the car and struck Fenton, knocking him down.

New Hair Growth After BALDNESS

HAIR GROWN ON MR. BRITTAIN'S BALD HEAD BY INDIANS' MYSTERIOUS HAIR GROWER

My head at the top and back was absolutely bald. The scalp was shiny. An expert said that as he thought the hair roots were extinct, and there was no hope of my ever having a hair growth.

Yet now, at an age over 60, I have a luxuriant growth of soft, strong, lustrous hair! The truth of baldness. The pictures shown here are from my photographs.

Photos when bald.

Many men and women, also children, have reported satisfactory results from Kotalko.

Indians' Secret of Hair Growth

At a time when I had become discouraged at trying various hair lotions, tonics, specialists' treatments, etc., I met, in my travels, a Cherokee Indian "medicine man" who had an elixir that he asserted would grow my hair. Although I had but little faith, I gave it a trial.

To my amazement a light fuzz soon appeared. It grew day, into a healthy growth, and are long my hair was as prolific as in my youthful days.

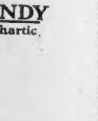
That I was astonished and happy to expressing my state of mind wildly. Obviously, the hair roots had not been dead, but were dormant in the scalp, awaiting the fertilizing potency of the mysterious pomade.

I negotiated for and came into possession of the principle for preparing this mysterious elixir, now called Kotalko, and later had the recipe put into practical form by a chemist.

That my own hair growth was permanent has been amply proved.

How YOU May Grow YOUR Hair

My honest belief is that hair roots rarely die even when the hair falls out through dandruff, fever, excessive dryness or other disorders. I have been told by experts that when hair falls out, the roots become imbedded within the scalp, covered by hard skin, so that they remain for a time like bulbs or seeds in a bottle which will grow when fertilized. Shampoos (which contain alkalis) and hair lotions which contain alcohol are enemies to the hair, as they dry it, making it brittle. Kotalko contains those elements of nature which give new vitality to the scalp and hair.



For women's hair.

Wednesday—"Mill End" Dry Goods Day

As bread is the staff of life, so do the short length domestic goods from the mills represent the key-note to my Lockhart "Mill End" Sale. "Wisdom's ways are ways of pleasantness and all her paths are peace." Dry Goods in a department store are like sugar in a grocery store. The valuable relationships that exist between the consumers and my sale were long since established by my lowest Lockhart "Mill End" prices on yard goods. The convincing power that made my sale famous throughout the country was the prices I name on Domestics and Dry Goods. You will see by reading the prices below that I am still the king of the Dry Goods world; nobody contests my position, nobody questions my ability to sell to everybody Dry Goods. Dry Goods are my hobby. It does my soul good to see the prudent women revelling in great quantities of new mill end dry goods. Don't think, because they have 5 or 10 yards in a piece, that they are less valuable than the same goods called full bolts. Don't deceive yourselves. Be wise, use your own judgment, keep prejudice behind you, get all you can out of opportunity, and the grass will grow in your back yard while over the fence the bare ground is as dry as a bone.

'BAB' CHARMS AUDIENCE AT HOLLIS

By FRED J. McISAAC,
Dramatic Editor.

A little girl named Helen Hayes was introduced to Boston audiences at the Hollis Street Theatre last night in "Bab," a new comedy based upon a set of stories by Mary Roberts Rinehart, dramatized by Edward Childs Carpenter.

We had heard something about her; how she set New York talking by her work in the middle-have-been daughter in "Dear Brutus," and again as the heroine of "Clarence," by Booth Tarkington play, which hasn't journeyed this way as yet. I don't think any of us realized what a very delightful personality she is.

Just as Maude Adams is resigning roles requiring youth as well as sweetness and impish charm, this young person comes along to suggest the Maude Adams of "The Little Minister" of 1896.

"Bab" is nothing but a dress parade for Helen Hayes. The effervescent and irrepressible little flapper with her romance, her sensationalism, her extravagance and effervescence is the new actress to introduce to use her wings.

Mr. Carpenter has turned out a pretty good play, you understand, full of the most diverting situations, but Bab is on the stage from the beginning to the end and everything revolves around her. To think of every regular ingenue trying to carry off this—well, it's unthinkable.

I read a few of the Bab stories and found them mildly amusing. To tell the truth I didn't look forward to an entire evening of the sub-deb and her penniless family. Then entered this singularly gifted young actress and glorified Bab until everybody, including myself, hung upon her absurd speeches and her still more ridiculous conduct. It was a triumph of personality.

I even venture to prophesy that Helen Hayes is going to be a tremendously popular actress for many years to come if her early success doesn't spoil her.

George Tyler, the producer, gave Miss Hayes very excellent support. Tom Powers, as Bab's affinity, has a lot of boyish charm and attraction. Arthur Eldred was capital as the British fiance of the snippish older sister, who was in turn charmingly done by Katherine Alexander. Junius Matthew was very amusing as Eddie Perkins, the boy who smoked a cigar and Clarabel Campbell, as fat Jane, Bab's bosom friend and confidant, did very well indeed.

There are large quantities of laughs in this piece and at least one situation new to me, when a girl hidden in a closet, with a pistol in her hand, sneezes and causes the pistol to go off.

ORPHEUM THEATRE—Vera Burt and her Syncopated Steppers head the vaudeville program at the Orpheum Theatre and offer a snappy arrangement of new melodies and dance diversions. The entire repertoire breathes class and punch, aided by a most capable company. "The Volunteers," an amusing and novelty song festival by George Botsford, proved a success. Others on the program were Ann Wardell and George Doncourt in a timely comedy offering, "Election Night;" Arthur Lloyd, the humorous card index; Driscoll and Westcott, a singing, talking and piano number, and Harrah & Mulroy.

GLOBE THEATRE—Owen Moore, whose latest starring vehicle, "Sooner or Later," was screened for the first time in Boston yesterday at Loew's Globe Theatre, has reduced the art of love making to a real science, and those who have heretofore held the laurels for being perfect lovers had better beware.

COLUMBIA THEATRE—Monroe Salisbury heads a delightful program at Loew's Columbia Theatre in "The Phantom Melody."

Plays That Remain

SHUBERT THEATRE—"The Rose of China," that thoroughly delightful musical play, which has been crowding the Shubert Theatre to its capacity, started on the last two weeks of its engagement in Boston last evening.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE—Owen Davis' melodrama of mystery, marriage and murder, "At 9:45," which has proved a good deal of a sensation among theatre-goers of Boston and New England the past month or so, started on its last week here at the Plymouth Theatre last evening.

MAJESTIC THEATRE—Oliver Morosco's greatest musical comedy success, "Linger Longer Letty," with Charlotte Greenwood as the principal fun-maker, began its second week at the Majestic Theatre last evening before another large audience which laughed long and hearty at this greatest of all laugh shows.

PARK SQUARE THEATRE—"Tea For Three" will close its Boston engagement next Saturday night. This delightful play dealing with the eternal triangle is replete with witty remarks and bright and snappy dialogue.

ARLINGTON THEATRE — John Craig's production of "The Outrageous Mrs. Palmer" by Harry Orthe is now in its third week at the Arlington Theatre. With Mary Young in the title role, this delightful little play of the adventures of a temperamental actress in Paris is another such success as was "Common Clay."

TREMONT TEMPLE—"Pollyanna," with Mary Pickford as the little "glad girl," still continues to do remarkable business at Tremont Temple in spite of the storms and the cold weather.

PARK THEATRE—"On With the Dance," the greatest photodrama of New York life ever filmed, is now in its second and last week at the Park Theatre, where it entertained capacity houses all last week.

WALDRON'S CASINO—Like a string of jewels, sparkle the brightness of wit and gems of song in the big, new burlesque organization entitled "The Million Dollar Dolls" at Waldron's Casino. In action, characterization and music, "The Million Dollar Dolls" is an excellent musical comedy made better by a host of pretty girls, clever comedians and talented vaudevillians. It offers an extremely funny musical myth entitled "In a Whirl of Pleasure." The staging shows evidence of the utmost care and skill.

SOMERVILLE THEATRE—"It Pays to Advertise," the great comedy hit written by Roi Cooper Megrue and Walter Hackett, took Somerville Theatre patrons by storm, and judging from the amount of enthusiasm accorded this capable organization and their efforts they thoroughly enjoyed it.

UPHAM'S CORNER STRAND—Nazimova heads the program this week at the Upham's Corner Strand in her greatest production, "Stronger Than Death," a play built around the uprising of the Indian population in India, the country of mystery.

ABIE PLEASED WITH CLEVER COMEDY

By "ABIE THE AGENT."

Listen, Minsk, wouldn't you like to go the one of them olden time house parties, like in the olden days? well, it's like that by the Boston Opera House.

It's playing there "Take It From Me"—but you don't have to—on a silver platter they handle you fun, music, music and much women—and they got the nerve to say yet, "Take It From Me." I'm asking you, who wouldn't?

They move around so fast, from one form of entertainment to another, that an encore would be out of place —in fact, an encore would be "blocking traffic."

It really should have the title of the Hippodrome show—there isn't a single of entertainment that they have left out—"Everything" should really be the title. But "Take It From Me" is generous enough—and I got to handle it to Will B. Johnstone for being such a good sport. Johnstone already a long time, for years, and thank heaven I'm finally proud of him! Anyhow I bought mine own ticket, so maybe, after all, we ain't such good friends.

Not only did I buy mine own ticket, but I also took with me Goldy Levenson—and oy, is she trying to imitate that chempeen vampire, Zoe Barnett —but my Goldy ain't such a good imitator. Miss Bennett is a style all herself.

Fred Hilderbrand—him with the long legs and flexible personality —he got talent that he is using now that being a member of the royal family prevents him from marrying his loved one, he assumes the role of Farans, the revolutionist, and plots the overthrow of his own throne on the day of his coronation.

With the aid of Professor Robert Aubrey Montague Hopkins, his tutor, he soon cut among the people and creates the desired sentiment. After many difficulties and numerous situations the revolution becomes a reality. He immediately proclaims that all can marry whom they love—he first taking his peasant bride, making her the first lady of the new republic.

There are a score of lingering song numbers and several special features dotting with a revolution in the little kingdom of Bargravia. Mythical as it may seem, it demonstrates that the real power is the divine right of the people.

A. Douglas Leavitt will be remembered as often as you think of the show—he plays 33 1-3 per cent. of the main cast—so as percentages he ain't so bad! But he is very pleasing, and I was heppeh to see him! And Coleman swings his hends in time to the music. I'll tell you how good he is directing. He can direct the pieces and can still swing a few "helios" to the audience while his hands are swinging through the air. They are all clever in this "Take It From Me" comedy.

GORDON'S OLYMPIA — Upon a highly imaginative basis, a thoroughly logical sequence of wonderfully funny events is woven into Henry Lehman's first big farce production, "A Twilight Baby," which was first shown, amid enthusiastic approval, at Gordon's Olympia. On the same program beautiful May Allison appears in the first screening of Oliver Morosco's great New York stage success, the society play, "The Walkoffs."

WALDORF THEATRE—The program at the Waldorf Theatre this week is headed by "Big Bill" Kellher, who tells his life story in graphic form, giving details which have never before been made public. His story is of interest to every citizen of Boston.

COMIC OPERA BIG HIT AT COLONIAL

A play is a play; a comic opera is a comic opera—but—take a play or a comic opera, add the extravagance and splendor through Cohanisation and you have a curative institution for melancholy blues.

"A Royal Vagabond," presented at the Colonial Theatre last evening, filled the bill as a curative institution. It is typical of the George M. Cohan production—artistic, extravagant, melodious and entrancing.

This comic opera is in three acts and three scenes. It is produced by Cohan and Harris; books and lyrics by Stephen Ivor Sinnsy and William Carey Duncan, and music by Dr. Anton Goetzl and George M. Cohen. Robinson Newbold is the star.

After one solid year's run at the Cohan and Harris Theatre in New York, this outburst of melody and fun had its premiere in this city. It has been given the stupendous production along musical comedy lines has visited this city. The gorgeousness of its scenes and the extravagance of the costuming of beautiful women must be viewed to give proper credit. It is a wonder.

The plot is excellent, and timely, dealing with a revolution in the little kingdom of Bargravia. Mythical as it may seem, it demonstrates that the real power is the divine right of the people.

Coming Events

SHUBERT THEATRE — "The Greenwich Village Follies," whimsically described by its masters as a musical comedy of life in New York's Quartier Latin, will begin a limited engagement of four weeks at the Shubert Theatre, beginning Monday, March 1.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE — Next week's attraction at the Plymouth Theatre will be A. H. Woods' presentation of "The Girl in the Limousine," a farce written by the author of "Up in Mabel's Room."

PARK SQUARE THEATRE—Seats for the Boston engagement of Sam H. Harris' newest musical play, "Honey-Girl," which opens at Selwyn's Park Square Theatre next Monday afternoon, Feb. 23, went on sale this morning at the box office of the theatre.

GORDON'S OLYMPIA—"Back to God's Country," the screen adaptation of James Oliver Curwood's famous story, "Wapi, the Walrus," shown last week at Gordon's Olympia, was filmed under conditions never faced by any other film maker. It has the distinction of having been made farther north than any other picture in the history of the screen. All the snow scenes were taken on the far shore of the Lesser Slave Lake, north of the 56th parallel.

THEDA BARA TO APPEAR ON STAGE

Theda Bara has renounced the screen for the stage.

At a salary said to triple any amount ever paid a theatrical star, A. H. Woods, the New York manager, has placed Theda Bara, queen of the films, under contract to appear in a stupendous melodrama entitled, "The Blue Flame," by George Hobart, author of "Experience." The premiere is to occur in Boston at the Majestic Theatre on the night of March 1.

This will mark Theda Bara's first appearance "in the flesh" since her fame as a motion-picture "vampire" has made her name a household word around the world, and extensive preparations are being made to make her visit to Boston as a legitimate star a memorable one.

GAIETY THEATRE—No show is more familiarly known from coast to coast than the "Sight-Seers," at the Gaiety. An unusual large chorus is put forward as the most attractive element of the show. In his present offering, James E. Cooper, the producer, has provided an entirely new production, a two-act musical revue entitled "Wait a Minute" and is a gay, giddy gambol through girl-land, which depicts a pawnshop shop, introducing human records, which is said to be the funniest thing done in burlesque.

COPLEY SQUARE THEATRE—A program of real merit and pleasing entertainment delights patrons of the Copley Square Theatre, Dorchester, yesterday. There were four acts of excellent vaudeville, featuring the approved and up-to-date steps, harmony and chatter. The feature film is "The Glorious Lady," with dainty and piquant Olive Thomas in the leading role.

MALDEN AUDITORIUM—"The Naughty Wife," which was produced yesterday for the first time in Malden at the Malden Auditorium, has a theme which is entirely different than ever before offered on an American stage.

KEITH'S BILL FULL OF MERIT

Headline honors at B. F. Keith's Theatre this week are divided between Wilkie Bard, the eminent English comedian, and Jimmy Barry, the equally prominent American entertainer. Mrs. Barry accompanies her husband in presenting "The Rube," with Mr. Barry running true to precedent in portraying the theatrical ambitions of the backwoodsman in the big city.

The star of the London music halls is on his second week and gives a vivid characterization of his selections which are well received. Mr. Bard takes many flings at prohibition in his jokes.

A sketch entitled "The Heart of Annie Wood," is deserving of attention. Eleanor Griffith takes the title role, portraying the battle of the country girl to decide whether to stay on the farm and continue her natural calling or go to the big city, and seek other occupation. It is neatly put over and the entire cast is capable.

There are also Davigneau's Celestials, being a company of Chinese entertainers. They give jazz music as rendered in the Far East and also the American way. Allen Hamilton presents a vaudeville cameo called, "A Breath of Lavender and Old Lace." Cervo shows how the accordeon should be played; Paul Morton and Naomi Glass give a musical satire entitled, "1920-1950," and some rare feats on the bicycle are accomplished by Dupree and Dupree. The usual Kinogrames and Topics of the Day completes the bill.

MODERN AND BEACON—This week's program at the Modern and Beacon Theatres is headed by Elsie Ferguson in "His House in Order," a film adaptation of Sir Arthur Wing Pinero's greatest success. This vehicle is ideally suited to Miss Ferguson's talents, and her many admirers will again have the opportunity of witnessing her always brilliant performance in a society role. On the same program is "Mary's Ankle," taken from the stage play by May Tully.

"THE WEDDING RING"

FRIDAY MATINEE

The company now playing "At 9:45" will be seen in a first performance on any stage of "The Wedding Ring," at the Plymouth Theatre on Friday afternoon of this week. The new play is by Owen Davis, the author of "At 9:45."

"39 East" Postponed

Owing to the delay in transportation, due to traffic difficulties occasioned by recent storms, the Messrs. Shubert's production of "39 East," the captivating comedy by Rachael Crothers, which was to have started its Boston engagement at the Wilbur Theatre last evening, will not open until tonight.

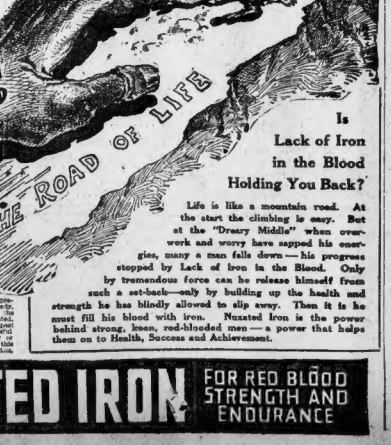
Lack Of Iron In The Blood Holds Them Back and They Fall Exhausted by the Wayside

Physician Says You Must Have Plenty of Iron in Your Blood to Be Strong—Tells Why Organic Iron—Nuxated Iron—Helps Build Red Blood That Gives Men the Strength and Endurance to Climb the Road of Life With Courage and Power

"Weakened by the heavy drains upon their nerve force and physical strength, thousands are held back in life by lack of iron in the blood," says Dr. John J. Van Horne, formerly Medical Inspector and Clinical Physician on the Board of Health of New York City.

"Their thin, pale, watery blood has utterly lost the power to send energy and power through the body and as a result they are without the endurance to keep on — they are forced to drop back among the weaklings and failures — beaten because their blood is literally starving for health-giving iron. But when such men and women supply the right kind of iron to their blood a most surprising change often takes place. They gain physical poise and fitness, mental alertness and greater power to combat obstacles and withstand severe strains. To help build stronger, healthier men and women, better able physically to meet the problems of everyday life, I believe that physicians should, at every opportunity prescribe organic iron—Nuxated Iron—for in my experience it is one of the best iron tonic and red blood builders known to medical science."

If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of Nuxated Iron three times per day, after meals, for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. Numbers of nervous, run-down people who were ailing all the while have now astonishingly increased their strength and endurance simply by taking iron in the proper form.



Is Lack of Iron in the Blood Holding You Back?

Life is like a mountain road. At the start the climbing is easy. But at the "Dreary Middle" when overwork and worry have sapped his energies, many a man falls down — his progress stopped by Lack of Iron in the Blood. Only by tremendous force can he release himself from such a set-back—only by building up the health and strength he has blindly allowed to slip away. Then it is he must fill his blood with iron. Nuxated Iron is the power behind strong, lean, red-blooded men — a power that helps them on to Health, Success and Achievement.

Manufacturers' Note: Nuxated Iron, which is prescribed and recommended above is not a secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists. Unlike other inorganic iron products it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results in every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is for sale in this city by Elder-Jayson, Liggett and all other druggists.

"Something big is going to happen in our Church next Sunday"

It was a hard headed business man speaking.

He was tired—as all of us are—of having the Church constantly asking for money.

He was ashamed—as all of us ought to be —that the church should have to ask.

He was telling of what the Stewardship Plan would do for his Church.

"Most of the leading business men I've talked to are for it heart, soul and pocketbook" he said. "We have often wondered why the Church didn't get on a plain business basis of raising funds. With the Stewardship Plan there will be no more begging; no more deficits."

Something will happen next Sunday in every church—in your church—if every member recognizes that God is the owner of his life and earning power; and that he, himself, is simply a Steward.

February is set apart by the Evangelical Churches, in cooperation with the Interchurch World Movement, as Stewardship Month. Sunday, February 29th will be National Life Service Enlistment Sunday. On that day the call will go forth to tens of thousands of young people to enlist for special Christian Service.

Next Sunday, February 22nd, has been chosen as Nation-wide Stewardship Acknowledgment Sunday. The goal of all the churches is ten million Christian Stewards regularly enrolled in the holy habit of giving of themselves and of their resources. The money test is primary to a one hundred per cent Christianity. The consecration of the first fruits of your income is your first part in the task of world rebuilding.

Will you be one next Sunday to formally acknowledge God's ownership of your life, your labor and your possessions?

Will you dedicate some definite proportion of your income in His cause?

INTOXICATION IS DIVORCE PLEA

Two of 11 Dedham Court Cases Are Based on Alleged Drinking Excess

Intoxication may be a memory in Police Court, but it still makes an occasional appearance where the divorce mills grind neither slowly nor exceeding small.

Mental Work Needs a Stomach

Great Mistake to Imagine You Can Work Better and Faster on the Starvation Plan. Eat What You Like, but Follow With Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Mental work uses up energy fast. And energy comes from food. To eat little or nothing in order to do more work is a fallacy that has created an army of dyspeptics. A better plan is to eat the regular portions of food such as make up the average meal and follow each meal with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

You will then get a double benefit—energy from food and sociability with meals for as a rule, the light eater, or those who skip meals, get into a bad habit, a sort of hermit-like isolation. Do not be afraid of gassiness, sour stomach, heartburn, heavy feeling or coated tongue after meals. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets arouse the stomach to secrete the juices necessary to relieve these troubles that so frequently distress the mental worker. They contain harmless ingredients which act with an alkaline effect, so you may eat the rich things of the banquet or the savory sausage for breakfast with utmost freedom.

Get a 50-cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at any drug store, eat freely of what you like and you will do more and better work than on a skimpy diet. Try this plan.

Crown Prince Longs for Bright Lights

By International News Service.

Wieringen, Holland, Feb. 17.—The former German Crown Prince is completely "fed up" with life on the barren little Dutch island of Wieringen, where he has been in exile since November, 1918, and longs to get back to the cities and electric lights and pretty women.

Although he has expressed his willingness to stand trial before an allied tribunal, the former heir to the German throne is said to be reaching the conclusion that he will not be called to the bar of justice, at least in an allied country, to answer the charge of violating the rules of warfare and humanity.

. . . and at three historic banquets

A fact:

Within a single week last fall, great civic dinners were tendered at the Waldorf-Astoria to General Pershing, to Herbert Hoover and to Cardinal Mercier. And at all three of these famous banquets, the only cigarette served by the hosts was Fatima.

Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

FATIMA

A Sensible Cigarette

"Just Enough Turkish"

Facts like these make Fatima's place among cigarettes unique. A few years ago, the "proper" thing on such state occasions would have been an expensive, fancy-boxed, straight Turkish cigarette.

Today, things are different.

Men base their choice on taste rather than price. That Fatima should be so clearly the choice of men who can afford anything they like, shows that most smokers really prefer—not too much Turkish tobacco in their cigarettes nor too little—but "just enough Turkish"

The Valley of the Giants

By Peter B. Kyne

MEANWHILE Colonel Pennington went to where the men were working, jumped aboard his engine and ran it along the track, stopping exactly over the crossing. Then he blew off steam and leaped down in front of Bryce.

"That engine being my property," he announced. "I'll take the short end of any bet you care to make, young man, that it will sit on those tracks until your temporary franchise expires. I'd give a good deal to see anybody not in my employ attempt to get up steam in that boiler until I give the word. Cut in your jump-crossing now, if you can, you whelp, and be damned to you. I've got you blocked!"

"I rather imagine this nice gentleman has it on us, old dear," chirped Buck Ogilvy, plaintively. "Well! We did our damdest, which angels can't do no more. Let us gather up our tools and go home, my son, for something tells me that if I hang around here I'll bust one of two things—this sleek scoundrel's gray head or one of my helicoe veins! Hello! Whom have we here?"

Bryce turned and found himself facing Shirley Sumner. Her tender lip was quivering, and the tears shone in her eyes like stars. He stared at her in silence.

"My friend," she murmured tremulously, "didn't I tell you I would not permit you to build the N. C. O.?"

He bowed his head in rage and shame at his defeat.

Off to San Francisco

Shirley and her uncle returned home and the Colonel immediately made preparations for a flying motor trip to San Francisco to get an injunction from the Federal District Court, restraining the cutting of the crossing for perhaps thirty days by which time the temporary franchise would lapse.

Next day Bryce had a visit from Buck Ogilvy. The latter wore a neatly pressed suit of shepherd plaid, with a white carnation in his lapel, and he was, apparently, the most light-hearted young man in Humboldt County. He struck an attitude and demanded:

"Bone, what do you think of my new suit?"

"You lunatic! Don't you know red blonds should never wear light shades? You're dressed like a Negro minstrel."

"Well, I feel as happy as an end-man. And by the way, you're all chirked up yourself. Who's been helping you to the elixir of life? When we parted last night, you were forty fathoms deep in the slough of despond."

"No less a divinity than Miss Shirley Sumner! She called this morning to explain that last night's fiasco was none of her making, and quite innocently she imparted the information that old Pennington lighted out for San Francisco at 1 o'clock this morning. Wherefore I laugh. Te-he! Ha-hah!"

"Three long, loud raucous cheers for Uncle. He's gone to rush a restraining order through the United States District Court. Wonder why he didn't write his attorneys to attend to the matter for him."

"He has the crossing blocked, and inasmuch as the Mayor feeds out of Pennington's hand, the colonel is quite confident that said crossing will remain blocked. As for the restraining order—well, if one wants a thing well done, one should do it oneself."

"All that doesn't explain your cheerful attitude, though."

"Oh, but it does. I've told you about old Duncan McTavish, Moira's father, haven't I?" Ogilvy nodded, and Bryce continued: "When I find the old scoundrel for boozing, it almost broke his heart; he had to leave Humboldt, where everybody knew him, so he wandered down into Mendocino county and got a job sticking lumber in the drying yard of the Willits Lumber Company. He's been there two months now, and I am informed by his employer that old Mac hasn't taken a drink in all that time. And what's more, he isn't going to take one again."

Waylay Colonel

"I know what your plan is," Ogilvy interrupted.

"You're going to ask Duncan McTavish to waylay Pennington on the road at some point where it runs through the timber, kidnap him, and hold him until we have had time to clear the crossing and cut Pennington's tracks.

"We will," nothing of the sort." Buck continued seriously. "Listen, now, to Father's words of wisdom: This railroad-game is an old one to me; I've fought at crossings before now and whether successful or defeated, I have always learned something in battle. Didn't you hear me tell that girl and her voracious avuncular relative last night that I had another ace up my kimono?"

Bryce nodded.

He opened a drawer in Bryce's desk and reached for the cigars he knew were there.

"Not at all a bad cigar for ten cents. However—you will recall that from the very instant we decided to cut in that jump-crossing, we commenced to play against indifference by Pennington; in consequence we kept, or tried to keep, our decision a secret. However, there existed at all times the possibility that Pennington might discover our benevolent intentions and block us with his only weapon—a restraining order issued by the judge of the United States District Court.

"Now, one of the most delightful things I know about a court is that it is open to all men seeking justice—or injustice disguised as justice. Also there is a wise old saw to the effect that battles are won by the fellow who gets there first with the most men. The situation from the start was absurdly simple. If Pennington got to the District Court first, we were lost!"

Preparedness.

"You mean you got there first," exclaimed Bryce.

"I did—by the very simple method of preparing to get there first in case anything slipped. Something did slip—last night! However, I was ready; so all I had to do was press the button, for as Omar Khayyam remarked: 'What shall it avail a man if he buyeth a padlock for his stable after his favorite stallion hath been lifted?' Several days ago, my boy, I wrote a long letter to our attorney in San Francisco explaining every detail of our predicament; the instant I received that temporary franchise from the city council, I mailed a certified copy of it to our attorney also. Then, in anticipation of our discovery by Pennington, I instructed the attorney to prepare the complaint and petition for a restraining order against Seth Pennington et al and stand by to rush the judge with it the instant he heard from me!

They died because they lacked attention—because the United States Government failed to give them the protection it gives hogs and cattle.

GLOOMY TIMES AHEAD FOR THE BOSTON BASEBALL FOLLOWERS

SAD DAYS IN SIGHT FOR FANS

Neither Boston Team Has Much Now Nor Is Likely to Be Any Better Right Away

By NICK FLATLEY.

Usually this is the optimistic time of the baseball year—with Spring trips about to start, and players all signed up, and everything Chautauqua but not now. Unless the millennium arrives within a fortnight, in a baseball manner of speaking, Boston faces one of the toughest diamond seasons in the memory of the oldest fan hereabouts, and there are many veterans with sad and bitter memories

Neither of the Boston clubs has strengthened the least little bit, and both have been considerably weakened. The Red Sox, of course, were ripped fore and aft when Babe Ruth was chucked overboard, and in addition to that it's going to figure how they were helped any by the deal with Washington. Roth, a chap who might have been a real star under pleasant conditions, and Shannon, the most promising young infielder in the game just now, were let go for three Senators.

Harry Harper, a pitcher, has never been a howling success over a good stretch of major experience, and now is having trouble about his contract. Mike Menosky hasn't been able to break into regular service with the Washington outfit, and never would make a normal Sox team. Eddie Foster is a good infielder, but he has passed his best years, and holds no such possibilities as Shannon.

The Sox, consequently, are in need of a couple of good outfielders, some more pitching strength, and a formidable punch, which is quite enough with the start of things less than two weeks off, and no prospects of help in the offing.

Hardly Any Chance to Get Players

The club's affairs are now in the courts, and until that little difficulty is ironed out, there's hardly a chance of any trading or purchasing of players, or of disposal of the club. Efforts have been made in the West to get sufficient capital together to take over the club, and Tris Speaker, who heads a Boston group willing to gamble, but there's no immediate likelihood of action.

It would not surprise anybody if the former owner, J. J. Lannin stepped in and took control, or even enough stock to be one of the influences on the business end of the club. J. J. is a baseball fan through and through, and while his troubles as a promoter may have driven him out, he's had quite a vacation, and if things frame up rightly might be inclined to hop back in.

Braves' Attempts Prove Futile

Regarding the Braves, all efforts of the manager an owner to gather new material and build up, have been as futile as the five attempts. The team now is about the same as it was at the close of last season, which was nothing to brag about. Fred Smith, a good hurler when he's right, and a Belzer has passed out of the picture. Some of the surplus substitute material has been pruned, but nary a bit of strength has been added.

It had been hoped that something would be put over at the league meetings last week, but only advance regarding the Braves came from Chi. 'Tis just about certain that Rabbit Maranville will not be traded as long as he is it should be. The midget is the only super star on the roster, and letting him out would be more or less like removing the turnstiles at the ball park.

As things stand now, those Braves need a few outfielders, and an infielder or two, not to mention a couple pitchers and a good first string backstop. Outside of that, everything's all right.

Oh, you can see, as we intimated above, it looms up like a mighty slim season for this neck of the universe, which deserves a far better shuffle in the national pastime.

Ministers Out for Sunday Baseball

This conservative and conventional part of the world is slowly drifting toward Sunday baseball. More bills to that effect have been filed with the Legislature than ever before, and a more liberal policy than ever with other years can be expected of the solons.

And now the moral and social welfare forces are lining up. Congregational churches comes out openly in approval of the playing of amateur baseball on Sunday afternoons. This is really the first official church sanction the Sunday game has ever received here, and is likely to remove much of the silent opposition that had blocked efforts to put the movement over. Once amateur baseball is established, it will be but a step to the professional brand. Which would be a very welcome addition to the monotonous days we have come upon.

Two games with Springfield Y M C A College are on Boston University's baseball schedule just announced by Manager Charles A Goodrich of Taunton, president of the B. U. Athletic Association. Y. D. VETERAN IN TRIPLE A BOUT

Louis Leonard, Who Boxes Harry Brown Tonight, Fought with 101st

By JACK CONWAY.

Louis Lebnard, Y. D. hero, will rely upon plenty of aggressiveness backed by a healthy punch to beat Harry (Kid) Brown of Philadelphia, in their twelve-round bout at the Grand Opera House tonight under the direction of the Armory A. A. There are few of the local 26-10-pound boys who can hit as hard as Leonard. As a result he will not lack for backers when he goes to the center this P. M.

When most of our American fighters were seeking jobs in shipyards and other places where they were mighty certain not to get in the way of any bullets, Leonard enlisted as a private in the old Ninth Regiment He was still with that unit when it became the 101st Infantry, and as the 101st Regiment of Infantry.

Leonard took part in all the big battles in which the Y. D. was engaged. He also found time in which to win the lightweight championship of the 26th Division. His tidy boxing and ability to punch carried him to decisive victories within the ring.

Leonard has kept right on winning since coming home. He believes he will add another triumph to his list tonight. If Leonard fights Brown instead of resting to clever boxing, he will have a fine chance to win.

Brown has shown to advantage in his Boston bouts against Johnny Mooney and Charley Bergh. He is a brilliant boxer, but he does not show to well when his opponent keeps at close quarters as Leonard intends to do.

Harry A. Chung of Salem will oppose Young Gould. Brockton's new ring sensation in the semi-final of eight rounds. Red McNeil of South Boston and Young Stone of Dorchester, heavyweights, battle 4 rounds, as will Flash Rogers of the south End and Young Benny of Newport.

OUTDOOR HOCKEY NOW ON HARVARD PROGRAM

"TWO AND THREE"

"PUTTING THE NEXT ONE OVER" WITH "BUGS" BAER

THE CABINET GLEE CLUB.

Will now sing:

Oh, a quiet little spot,

In a quiet little cot,

On a quiet building lot

On Mount Vesuvius.

IN chirping on the Cabinet situation, Senator Adenoids said: "America is a democracy. A man should be able to sleep with his shoes on." The Senator was elected to Congress on the crest of the Prohibition wave, which dried up America last Summer.

THE Senator used to guzzle some himself, but America was dry for him when whiskey jumped to 15 cents a sniffer. He never drank anything he couldn't afford. But he drank many a drink the other guy couldn't afford. Most of the Senator's relatives were killed by the Eighteenth Amendment, and his own case is a remarkable example of suspended animation.

SENATOR ADENOIDS continued: "The Senate is with Mr. Lansing to a man. We'll see him through this or drag him down to our own level."

"THE Senate has had no rest since the armistice. For Gewackus' sake, bring back the war and let us have peace."

"EACH day Woody sends the Peace Treaty over to the Senate and each day we clip some of its tail off. There is no chance of a Democratic President next year. I would describe this year as the best administration that the Republicans ever had. That's a fine Cabinet Pudding that Woodrow has cooked up. If it wasn't for the reading of the Peace Treaty each day, I would never grab any sleep. The Treaty might be described as the Senatorial Lullaby.

"THEY say that the world is safe for democracy, but I notice that every hotel I stop at always has chains on its combs and brushes. Some hotels even chain up the soap. They never chain up the hotel rates. They run wild."

THE Senator was the gent who discovered that a U. S. Senator didn't have to pay fare on the railroads. He took advantage of the laundry franking privilege by wearing his laundry on all trips and franking himself all over the world.

IN spite of the Senator's sarcasm, the U. S. is still a democracy. Every American boy has a chance of firing a Cabinet some day.

IN the old days of beer checks, a Cabinet position was considered a fairly permanent job. Four years was a long time, especially to a town like Washington, where even the sparrows can't fly fast enough to build a nest in a century plant. Now, the Cabinet guys get fired so often that they are always one jump ahead of their last mailing address. The guy who starts a cigar as Secretary of the Interior, generally finishes the smoke as Secretary of the Exterior. The Sec of Agriculture is harvested long before the other crops. Whoever is nominated Secretary of State doesn't bother about taking his hat off when he takes the job. It's lost motion.

A NEW job has just been created in Woody's Cabinet. It's Secretary of the Gate with the oiled hinges. Whenever another Secretary shows symptoms of developing a personal pronoun, the Sec of the Gate returns Woody's wink and another good man crashes the exit.

A CABINET job is healthy. It keeps you in the open air. In spite of the Fire Commissioner's warning, many a Cabinet member has beaten his neighbor to the street.

"The Cabinet meetings are very formal. All the Secretaries are stoveleaning in it around a big table, thinking of Woody and trying to keep warm. That's a tough job when you're thinking of the boss. But—as soon as Woody steps into the room the Cabinet breaks out into a rash of formality.

WHEN Woodrow waltzes into the room all the secretaries jump to their feet.

SOME of them even start walking.

Hint at Dark Horse for Baseball Board

New York, Feb. 17.—A new chairman for the National Commission may be named within two weeks, according to John A. Heydler, president of the National League.

"The publishing of the names of men presented for consideration by the joint committee is to be regretted," said Mr. Heydler today. "Not one of them, to my knowledge, has been a candidate for the chairmanship of the commission, and the publishing of their names was not only embarrassing to them but a handicap to Mr. Johnson and myself I hope, however, that a new chairman may be announced within a fortnight.

Leo Cody to Coach Teams at St. John's

Leo Cody, former St. John's Prep., Worcester Academy, and Georgetown star, has accepted an offer to coach baseball and football at the Danvers School where a few year ago he made athletic history.

Mark Devlin, former Holy Cross star and team-mate of Cody while at the Prep., coached the baseball team last Spring which won sixteen out of eighteen games. This year he is coaching all athletics at St. Ambrose College in Iowa, where, according to the newspapers, he is meeting with the same success.

Only Harvard Men to Attend These Bouts

Larry Conley, boxing instructor at Harvard, will referee the annual Harvard boxing tournament with Dr Paul Withington, Pooch Donovan and Dan Kelley acting as judges. Dr. Geer will be timekeeper. The meet will be held in Brattle Hall, Cambridge, and the preliminary bouts a week previous. The date of the regular carnival is March 25. Non-college outsiders have been elected and held other offices at the ringside, but this year none but Harvard men will be admitted.

This action will prevent Harry Allen, a prominent private instructor, from whose men in previous years have cleaned up at the annual carnival, from being present and handling a towel.

LEGION GAMES ATTRACT STARS

Enough Entries in Already to Assure Success of Meet Monday Night

The American Legion Athletic Carnival, which is to take place next Monday at the East Armory, already has enough entries to assure success.

The Boston mile, for which Mayor Peters presented a trophy, will be competed for under the same rules as the Hunter Mile Cup. Mike Devaney, M. Connolly, Jimmy Connolly and Sid Leslie are entered in this event.

A cup also will be given to the most winning the most number of points in the 40-yard dash, 440-yard run and the relay races

The medley relay race between the Boston Legion team and the Somerville Legion team should furnish one of the features of the night. The Somerville team will be made up of Hurchison, Moore, Lennon and Devanney while the Boston team has Driscoll, Dempsey, Minot and O'Connell of Harvard.

The 50-yard dash has some good men entered with Leon Murchison, J. J. Barr and Eddie Teschner. Sid Leslie, winner of the handicap 1,000 yard run at the B. A. A. games, is entered in the 880-yard event. Jake Driscoll and Dave Caldwell will run in the special 600, and Fred Faller, the Finnigan brothers, Leith and Nightingale are in the three-mile race.

The college teams that have been matched in the relay races are Brown and M. I. T; Harvard vs. B. A. A.; Dartmouth, Boston College and Tufts; Rhode Island State and Massachusetts Agricultural, and Worcester Tech and Williams. English High school will run Boston Latin and B. C. High will probably be matched with Commerce

Tickets are on sale at Wright & Ditson's and Filene's.

CALLAHAN WINS FROM LORTZ

Latter Was Disqualified When Seconds Threw Water on Him Following Knockdown

Harry Lortz, Kansas City lightweight, was disqualified in the second round of his bout with Frankie Callahan at the Suffolk Club when his seconds threw water on him. At the time the water was thrown Lortz was on the canvas as a result of a stiff right-hand blow to the body.

The Kansas City scrapper was dazed when he went down. The water was then thrown. Lortz got up at the count of four but was disqualified by Referee Larry Sweeney When Lortz protested, Callahan re-entered the ring and announced he was willing to resume boxing. The referee, however, held to his original decision, as it was agreed before the contest started that it would be a breach of rules to have water thrown from a corner.

If Callahan had been granted his request to resume boxing, he would probably have knocked Lortz out with a punch. He completely outclassed the Kansas City man from the start and would have stopped him in the first round if he had cared to do so. Frankie, however, wanted to give the fans a little action before he put over the finishing wallop. It will take Lazzaro, Tendler or Dundee to give Callahan a real bout as he is as good as ever.

Vincent Martin of Buffalo stopped Mikey Pitsimmons of Yonkers in the semi-final in three rounds. Young Ruben of Roxbury failed to respond to the bell in the third round of his bout with Denny Glynn of the same district. He announced he had broken one of his hands. Glynn had scored several knockdowns and it looked as though Ruben feared a knockout. Johnny Morley of Roxbury stopped Johnny Mayo of Roxbury in a round.

GIBBS NOT WORRYING OVER DEFEAT BY BRITT

Sailor Joe Gibbs isn't going to let his recent setback at the hands of Frankie (Young) Britt worry him in the least. Joe Dundon has received a flock of offers for the services of his rugged scrapper. Richardson attributes Gibbs' defeat at the hands of Britt to the fact the former ar only recently was operated upon for a trouble in his back. Britt gave most of his attention in the early rounds to the injured spot. This naturally slowed Gibbs down After Sailor Joe gets going on high once more he intends to ask a return match with Britt. And, according to Richardson, there will be a different story to tell when all has been said and done

Slattery Limbers Up Harvard Pitchers

The warming-up process for Harvard's varsity pitchers and catchers started today, Coach Jack Slattery having his battery material take baseball caps on Soldiers' Field. Among the pitchers loosening up were Babe Pelton, Hall, Hardell, Carl Harrison, Eddie Goode and Freddie Bullard.

Coach Slattery told the varsity squad that the reason so many colleges have poor teams is because they have no baseball system. Captain Emmons told the men the idea was to beat Yale, and that meant many hours of hard work; Dr. Nichols had a word concerning keeping fit, while Manager Kirk put stress on the necessity for standing high in studies.

MORSE MANAGING TOMMY CORBIEY

Reuben Morse, manager of a flock of box fighters, was smiling today with a golden smile on exhibition. His merriment was due to the fact that he is now manager of Tommy Corbiey of Gloucester. Said Corbiey is a boy who pounds recently blotted Frank Tillo to a draw at Quincy, despite the fact he took the match on short notice. And, Corbiey recently started company with Morse after the latter had benefited him as a pugilistic ladder. Now Morse is planning a match between his new protege and the youth who did him wrong. All of which makes a fine setting for one of those vintage powwows the pirsuided schoolboys like to write.

A Foible of Dickens.

CHARLES DICKENS invariably wrote in blue ink on blue paper, as he held the impression that the color of ink and paper greatly facilitated the flow of his ideas. Another idiosyncrasy of his was the writing of day and month in full, as "January twenty-sixth."

April Folly

By Cynthia Stockley

A Brilliant New Film Romance With Marion Davies

Watch for This Story in Motion Pictures

"April Folly," soon to be seen in leading motion picture theatres, is a Cosmopolitan production, released through Famous Players-Lasky Corporation as a Paramount-Artcraft picture, under direction of Robert Z. Leonard. Scenario by Adrian Johnson.

APRIL, wearying of Kenna's cruel heckling, turned to him for a moment's relief, and what she saw in his eyes was wine and oil for her weariness; but it made her afraid, not only because of the perilous longing in her to give him all he asked, but because Kenna sat alert as a lynx for even a smile she might cast that way.

However, even the careful plans of first-class lynxes go awry sometimes. A waiter came to the table to say that Kenna was wanted on the telephone.

"Tell them I'm engaged," was the curt answer.

"It's his honor, Judge Dynx sir," said the waiter, in an awed manner, "and I have already told him you were at dinner. He says it is of importance."

Kenna glared at the man, then at his companions. They appeared placidly indifferent. April sipped her wine, and her eyes roamed round the room while she exchanged idle talk with Sarle. But the moment Kenna's back was turned indifference fell from them. They looked at each other eargly, like two school-children in a hurry to take advantage of the teacher's absence.

"Par him!" muttered Sarle. "I wish trying would keep him all night! I want you to myself."

Not a Bit of Respite.

"He will be back directly," she said almost breathlessly.

Sarle glanced at the plates. They were dry as the fish.

"He's got to finish his dinner, I suppose," he said grudgingly. "But can't we escape afterward? I want to show you the garden."

"He will stay with us," she answered tragically.

"Oh—but to Halifax with him!"

—began Sarle.

"I know; but we mustn't offend him, she implored hastily. He's—he's such a good fellow."

"Of course, I realize he is an old friend of yours and likes to be with you and all that," Sarle conceded. "Hint so do I. I want to show you the garden—by myself." He looked pleadingly and intently into her eyes until her lids fell and a soft flush suffused her cheeks. His glance drank in every detail of her fresh, sweet beauty. "What's that funny little patch of white on your hair?" he asked suddenly. "I have been puzzling about it all the evening. Is it a new fashion"

She shook her head.

He's coming back." From where she sat she could see Kenna the moment he entered the room

"Promise you will come in the garden," he urged

"Yes, she said softly.

"Even if we have to pretend to say good night? I shall be waiting for you—you'll come"

She nodded; there was no time for more. Kenna was upon them, very cross at having his dinner interrupted and with an eye cocked searchingly upon April. But neither she nor Sarle gave any sign of what had passed.

Later, when they were round their coffee in the lounge, the hall porter brought her some letters on a salver. She saw Kenna looking at her satirically as she examined the superscriptions. All were addressed to Lady Diana Sandland, and the problem of what she was to do about letters was one not yet considered.

"Don't let me keep you from your interesting correspondence," he remarked, and April started to find they were alone. Sarle had gone across to get some cigars.

"Oh, there's nothing that can't wait," she said hastily, and pushed them into her hand bag."

The Secret Out.

"I agree"—he assumed a bright, conversational air— "that some things are more interesting for being waited for—the explanation of your conduct, for instance."

"You appear to suffer from curiosity?"

"Don't call it suffering" — his tone was suave—"I am enjoying myself immensely."

"I shall try not to do anything to interfere with your amusement," she remarked, stung a pause.

"And will be kind. The situation piques me. I cannot like to watch it to a finish without contributing to the denouement—that"—he looked at her significantly—"I am obliged to."

"I cannot believe anything or anyone could oblige you to be disagreeable, sir Ronald," she jeered softly.

He moistened his lips as if greatly. "There are one or two things, though—friendship, for instance. I would do quite disagreeable things for the sake of a friend." She was silent. "I might even vex a woman I admire as much as I do you to save a friend from disaster."

Thus they sparred, the attention of each fixed on Sarle, so gay and debonair, buying the flowers and the stones throw of them. Having finished with this, he attempted to refish them, but the lounge was crowded, and at every few steps some old friend entangled him

"There is nothing like a real calamity about me." In spite of herself, a note of desolation crept into her voice. "There was a new side to the adventuress!

"An contrare. Apart from the inestrable gifts of personality and beauty the gods have bestowed, you possess a quality that would draw admiration from the most unwilling—courage." She stared incredibly. Sarle was escaping from his many friends at last and returning. Kenna stepped out to meet him and he say sharply, though his voice was low "He is a good fellow, and I do not care to give him pain—unless you force me to."

A Bad Question

He searched her face keenly but found no trace there of anything except a courteous interest in his conversation She did not know him to guess how much Vereker Sarle's happiness meant to her.

"Anything else?" she dared him.

"Well, of course I should like to know where the real Lady Diana is," he asked carelessly

That gave her a bad moment Mercifully the waiter created a diversion by knocking a coffee-cup over as he removed the tray and Sarle returning, with the news for Kenna of a mutual friend's success in some political campaign. This gave her a short space in which to recover. But she was badly shaken and wondered desperately how she was going to get through the rest of the evening if Kenna clung

They sat talking in a desultory fashion, each restlessly watching the others. There was a clatter of conversation about them, and in the adjoining drawing room a piano and violins had begun to play. The air was warm and heavy. For some reason April could not fathom, the French windows had been closed and there was a swishing, seething sound outside, as though the sea were rushing in tides through the garden. She felt curiously unstrung. It was not only the nervous effect of having these two men, so intent upon her every word and movement, but there was something extraordinarily disturbing in the atmospheric conditions that made the palms of her hands ache and her scalp prickle as from a thousand tiny thorns.

Wouldn't it be cooler out where we were sitting this afternoon?"

"I think so," said Sarle briskly. "Besides, I want to show you the garden." He rose, but Kenna rose, too.

"My dear fellow," he expostulated gently, "don't you realise there is a southwester blowing. We can't subject Lady D. to the curse of the Cape tonight It always affects newcomers most disagreeably. In fact, I think she is suffering from it already."

"Is that what is making me prickle all over and feel as though I want to commit murder?" she inquired with a rather tremulous smile What is this new African horror

"Only our Cape mistral." Sarle looked at her anxiously. "It's blowing a bit hard in the trees outside, but—"

When a Girl Marries

New Serial by Ann Lisle

I WONDER if she had meant Tom to hear, but he passed through the swinging door without paying any further attention to us. The words he had said down at Evvy's were ringing in my mind, though they hadn't any connection with the scene Tom had just witnessed.

"I want you to be happy, and if Jim hurts you or wrongs you in any way, I'll kill him." Tom had declared as we stood on the veranda of the old Harrison place that memorable afternoon when Evvy and Neal upset their canoe. "If you won't let me try to make you happy, I won't let him make the most glorious woman in the world miserable"

Now, Tom Mason had seen me standing in a group of which my husband wasn't one, and had heard us planning a reunion of which again Jim wasn't to be one. And he had turned with a look that seemed directed at me. I wasn't afraid of his jealousy. What terrified me was the realization that as Jim was now living at his club, Tom Mason might find it out and interpret it as the hurt and wrong it really was

Not even the glorious ride out into the country nor the jolly tea party with my friends could make me forget Tom Mason and my fears for Jim

When Tony and I were leaving the station—where we had gone to bid Terry and Betty Mine a bon voyage—Tony and I were decked, bridal-looking farewells—I thought I glimpsed Tom Mason's figure in the crowd at the gates But when I reached the corner I couldn't find him—so I put it down as a figment of my overwrought imagination.

But when I said good-by to Tony and came back to my apartment my absurd fears came in with me Then I faced them and endeavored them for what they were. I knew perfectly well Tom had been indulging in the notion known as "Hearing himself talk" that day down at Evvy's I felt sure he wasn't in the slightest danger from him. But I wanted to arrange to call the Aviators' Club and ask Jim to come home—any excuse on the real one

"Now, I'll stop being ridiculous," I said at last with determination I'll just go and telephone Jim and ask him to come home. Evvy gives him away by my hardness. I'll call him back by my gentleness. It isn't Jim I'm afraid of—but myself. I'm afraid of killing Jim's love."

I fairly ran to the telephone on the little night table by my bed But as I took down the receiver, which I'd lifted half way to my ear. In the doorway I saw Jim. My hand tumbled down at my side

"I'm so glad you're here, Jim," I said, trying to keep my voice low and controlled. "I was just going to call the club and ask you to come home."

"Don't make me feel any more like a brute than I do, Anne" Jim muttered in a husky voice

Then he took a great, leaping stride across the room, and gathered me into his arms. I snuggled against his heart and clung to him. It was I who had come home to Jim's arms

Anne!" burst from him at last "You still love me"

"I never stopped Jim," I replied "You wonderful—you! My—" cried Jim, kissing me to him again

"Anne," said Jim, some time later, "you're not to go to your self and this silly party with my friends could make me forget Tom Mason and my fears for Jim

"Anne," burst from him at last "You still love me"

"I never stopped Jim," I replied "You wonderful—you! My—" cried Jim, kissing me to him again

"Anne," said Jim, some time later, "you're not to go to your self and this silly party with my friends could make me forget Tom Mason and my fears for Jim

CITY MAY NOT RAISE TAX LIMIT

Counsel Hill Says Boston Has Gained More from Collections Than Appeared Possible

The hopeful suggestion that the city of Boston may not have to ask for a $1 increase in the tax limit was made by Corporation Counsel Arthur D. Hill to the legislative Committee on Municipal Finance.

"The city has gained more from its collections than appeared possible when this petition was put in," said Hill, in withdrawing the city's active support for the bill, but asking that it be held in abeyance in the event that possible financial embarassment may arise.

Hill, however, insisted that Boston should be the sole judge of its tax limit. He urged the passage of a law to take from the Legislature the power to establish a tax limit, and to place that power in the hands of a commission, two to be appointed by each the Governor and the Mayor and the fifth to be elected by the four appointees.

CLAIMS PLOT TO RAISE GAS RATE

Councillor McLaughlin Claims Coal Operators and Lighting Companies in Conspiracy

Charging collusion to raise prices on the part of the coal operators and gas companies through interlocking directorates, City Councillor Edward F. McLaughlin in orders introduced into the City Council called upon Mayor Peters to detail the progress of the fight against the threatened increase in the price of gas and urged Congress to place an embargo upon the exportation of coal.

In an impassioned speech, Councillor McLaughlin declared the people of Boston and New England are being robbed.

"It is incumbent upon Mayor Peters to appropriate money to have auditors examine the books of the Boston Consolidated Gas Company. Five thousand dollars expended for this purpose may save the people of Boston from being robbed of millions.

"It is our duty to force action, and, if anyone is dilatory, to take that action ourselves."

"If it is true, as Mr. Storrow says, that the restrictions under which coal is mined and sold, are to be removed on April 1, and the coal operators can sell coal abroad at an increase of $1.35 per ton over what they can obtain in this country, Congress should declare an embargo until such time as the demands of the industries and the people of Boston and New England are met."

Exporting Less Steel

This country is exporting less steel at present than for several years. During the war European demand for such products were abnormal. Now it is not only on a peace basis but affected by exchange rates. Steel and iron exports for 1918 were valued at $960,373,732 against $1,035,291,740 for 1919 and $1,241,560,102 for 1917. For December last they amounted to $60,190,425, a decrease of $14,720,823 from the valuation of shipments in the corresponding 1918 month.

IT'S WHITE AND 90c

"There is a tide in the affairs of men which, taken at its flood, leads on to fortune."

New Safety Paper, a new paper industry, is the "tide" in the affairs of WORKMEN which, being taken NOW, leads on to 30% earnings the 1st year, 60% the 2d, and 100% the 3d.

Government Control of business is a joke to everyone who knows the fact. Capitalistic control is all right for capital, but all wrong for all others. WORKERS' CONTROL of productive industries which they own and operate solves all "Labor and Capital" problems because it makes the WORKERS BUSINESS.

WORKERS: OWN YOUR OWN INDUSTRIES. BE YOUR OWN CAPITALISTS. DO YOUR OWN WORK. PAY YOURSELVES JUST WAGES. DIVIDE YOUR OWN PROFITS AMONG YOURSELVES.

New Safety Paper fills the bill. Its founder is endorsed by HUNDREDS OF BANKS. Its foundation principle is endorsed by the Roman Catholic Church as of the greatest ultimate value to WORKERS. CAN YOU BEAT IT?

Call at our office, see the paper, watch the DEMONSTRATION which proves its merit, and join over 600 other WORKERS in helping others to help themselves better their conditions.

The shares will soon advance to $1.00 on the way up.

RALLY IN OILS THE FEATURE

Motors, Steels and Other Leaders Improve in the Second Hour

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor

Stocks ruled weak in New York at noon but were well above the morning lowest and the market tone had greatly improved. There was a recovery in the motor group. The rally by oils was the feature.

Motors and steels advanced from the low level and the list verged on irregularity at the end of the forenoon. Call money renewed at 6 per cent., and this started stocks upward. In the foreign exchange market demand sterling opened 5c lower at $3.34¾.

WEAK AT THE OPENING.

Motors and steels advanced at the opening and the list looked a little irregular, the majority declined and the market had a weak tone when trading began. Securities were in good supply, short covering was inconsequential and the idea that prices may remain much lower level reduced odd lot and other investment buying. Offerings receded further in the first hour, although rallies now and then kept a few issues around or above the opening prices. The market was weak on the whole. Oils showed the most group strength, while rails were conpers looked firm in comparison with motors and steels. The latter eased off. The decline was not precipitous. Public Steel sold below par for the first time in a long period. Crucible dropped considerably below 60. First hour declines ranged from fractions to about seven points. Gains were trifling and few.

RESISTANCE WAS FEEBLE.

Bears met with feeble resistance at any point of attack and the ease with which stocks were forced down indicated that the market had little support from any powerful interest. Conditions at Washington are breeding rumors of all kinds and they are being spread broadcast by countless tongues. This is undermining confidence and doing business as well as political damage. Hitherto manufacturers have been more perturbed over conditions at the capitol and elsewhere than merchants and manufacturers. But the curtailment of credits is beginning to affect trade.

In some lines, although increased production is as necessary as ever, there is more anxiety about marketing stocks on hand than over obtaining orders for distant deliveries. Manufacturers and jobbers are not disposed to buy raw material for future use at present prices when there is any probability that what they can obtain a few months hence for their output will be less than current rates. Speculators in commodities will doubtless be forced to liquidate in the end. Gambling has been as extensive outside the stock market as within it.

TRAWLER PELICAN RAISED AT T WHARF

The steam trawler Pelican of the East Coast Fisheries Company, which sank in the north dock of the T wharf February 7 who raised today. She was sealed by divers and pumped out. The Pelics will be taken tomorrow to Portland, Me., for repairs and her 100,000 pound cargo sold for the first fertiliser factory. The vessel sank a few hours after she had broken a hole in her hull, trying to force her way through ice in the Narrows channel.

PRICES YIELD IN BOSTON

Ease Off on Exchange After Irregular Opening; Curb Trading Active

Stocks were quiet at the opening in Boston and changes ruled small then and later in the morning. Irregularity marked the price movement at the outset when selling pressure increased the market became weak. On a small scale it mirrored New York, although there were not large losses on the local exchange. The volume of business remained small. Nothing unusual enlivened trading.

Issues to recede a point or more during the morning included Boston Elevated, Boston & Maine, Copper Range, New England Telephone, Waltham Watch, Swift International and Eastern Steamship. Among stocks to recede less were American Telephone, Calumet and Arizona, Butte, New Cornelia, Old Dominion, United Shoe, Ventura, National Leather, Clinton Wright, Swift & Hood and Van Dervoort, Mexican Investments and Gray & Davis.

Punta Alegre was the strongest stock during the forenoon, showing more than a point gain while Aluminum gained one point. The improvement for each was on a solitary transaction. Fractional gains were made by Mayflower Old Colony, United Fruit, Carson Hill, Eastern Manufacturing, International Cement and Edison.

CURB MARKET MORE ACTIVE.

There was more activity on the Curb at the opening and the early trend was indefinite, Crylstal was the leader in the turnover. It was strong as well as active. Universal Silvers was weak, selling as low as 22 cents during the first hour. Among strong stocks at the start were Albany Divide, Boston & Montana, Hecla Divide, Imperial and White Oil. Weak issues at the opening included Eureka, First National, Gilliland, Pioneer and Verde Mines.

By 11 o'clock Gilliland was off 2 at 38, Silver Reef 2 cents at 16 cents and Universal Silvers 13 cents at 22 cents. Among gains were White Oil 1¾ at 29¾ and Crystal 14 cents at 64 cents.

NEW YORK LIFE HAD A PROSPEROUS YEAR

Last year was a prosperous period for the New York Life Insurance Company. Its new business amounted to $373,000,000, which makes it a high record for this famous old institution. At the end of 1919 the total New York Life insurance in force totalled $3,127,000,000, and it had paid policyholders $155,000,000 during the year. On January 1, 1920, this company had resources amounting to more than $961,000,000, which included more than $100,000,000 in Liberty bonds and Victory notes. Dividends to be paid policyholders this year exceed $12,500,000, and the company's surplus reserve for contingencies and future dividends is more than $138,000,000.

In regard to taxation, a reason given by this company why life insurance should not be taxed is that it is in itself a tax voluntarily imposed by the insured to prevent burdens falling upon the State. It is said by the company that life insurance is not only taxed too much as a business, but also that the proceeds of policies paid to estates are liable to heavy inheritance tax.

Even life policies payable to beneficiaries for annuity purposes are subject to tax by the amount of $40,000, which makes it impossible to provide for a large inheritance tax by life insurance. The estate of the late Frank W. Woolworth paid $8,800,000 to the Federal government and $1,000,000 to the State government, as inheritance taxes, and the widow and her Fifth avenue residence in order to do it rather than sacrifice personal securities.

Tin Imports Decreased

Imports of tin in bars, blocks or pigs decreased in December last when compared with the preceding month. December imports totalled 12,940,125 pounds, valued at $7,003,154, while November imports amounted to 15,233,-172 pounds, valued at $8,412,563. Most of the tin came from the Straits Settlement.

COAL OUTPUT DROPS OFF

First Week of February Shows Decrease of 597,000 Tons From Previous Week

During the first week in February bituminous coal production was 10,-904,000 tons, a decrease of 597,000 tons compared with the output for the preceding week. The Geological Survey reports January production as 48,722,000 tons, against 41,487,000 in January, 1919, and 42,227,000 in January, 1918.

Wall Street Briefs

R. W. Nimick & Company of No. 150 Broadway, New York, have underwritten a $750,000 first mortgage 7 per cent bond issue for the Rockford Knitting Company of Rockford, Illinois, the proceeds to be used for the proceeds of the bond sale, it is stated, for additional working capital and to retire current indebtedness. Its net assets are given as $1,153,000, and its surplus as $421,584. The bonds are directly secured by a closed first mortgage on the Rockford Knitting Company plant.

The Hercules Powder Company reports for 1919 net earnings after all charges of $11,778,784 equivalent to $12.35 a share on net for the year 1919 the St. Joseph Lead Company reports net earnings of $2,000,000 after depreciation and depletion.

For the first time, Louis & South western system reports increases of $422,388 in $1,153,000 and its surplus as $421,584. The bonds are directly secured by a closed first mortgage on the Rockford Knitting Company plant.

Fire Losses Last Month

Fire losses in this country and in Canada during January this year totalled $37,012,750, according to the compilation by the Journal of Commerce. The increase over losses for the corresponding 1919 month approximated $7,500,000. While there were more disastrous fires, the increased loss is also due in part to higher valuation of property.

Why Silver Declined

The recent decline in the price of bar silver is said in London to be due partly to the decision of the British government to reduce the silver content of coins, but to have been caused to a greater extent by temporary cessation of buying of the white metal by China.

New York, Feb. 17.—The cotton market opened steady with prices up 2 points to 8 points down. May advanced to 38.50 on local buying and trade demand. Shocking, Needless Scandal of German Ship Deal

The United States Senate has passed with substantial unanimity Senator McKellar's resolution forbidding the Shipping Board to sell the German fleet without express authority from Congress. We look to the House with confident hope that it will do the same. That will settle the matter.

The United States Shipping Board is not to be trusted. This is shown by the surreptitious ways in which it gave notice of the sale, by the indefiniteness of the conditions, by the absence of any guarantee that the superb fleet should never be alienated from our flag or lost to our naval reserve.

No one who knows John Barton Payne could question his integrity. He is a corporation lawyer whose brief six months as the head of the Shipping Board has shown that he knows nothing about ships.

But it is perfectly plain that someone in the government is being overreached by a few Anglo-American financiers of great ability.

That is exactly what Woodrow Wilson meant when, as a candidate for President, he said that "the government has got into the hands of private syndicates and special interests and they have set up an invisible empire above the forms of democracy."

This German fleet was appraised by the government itself, when it was seized, at $215,000,000.

Major John Devereux York, official naval architect for the Shipping Board, says that it could not now be duplicated even at that price.

President Ferguson, of the Newport, Va., Dry Dock and Ship Building Company, one of the largest contractors for the government, testified before the Senate Committee that the Vaterland alone (greatest ship in the world) could not be built for less than $25,000,000 or $30,000,000 today.

The Shipping Board was dickering to sell this peerless express steamer and transport to a British-Wall Street syndicate for $4,000,000.

That syndicate, whose chairman is a British subject resident in London, offered as its best bid yesterday $14,000,000 for the eleven finest of the German ships.

Any all-American company, or our government itself, operating those eleven ships in the regular Atlantic service between New York and British, French and German ports could have no successful rival, no peer, in any existing steamship line under any flag.

The Shipping Board was dickering to sell these thirty German ships—nearly new and the finest and greatest ships afloat—at about $80 a ton, when the British-Wall Street syndicate, the chief bidder, IS AT THE PRESENT TIME BUILDING IN BRITISH SHIPYARDS 215,000 TONS OF SMALLER SHIPS WHICH ARE TO COST NEARLY DOUBLE $80 A TON.

Ships in the Atlantic trade make eight round trips a year only between Atlantic ports and the United Kingdom, and the ships recently released by the British Admiralty have earned $25 per deadweight ton per round trip. A committee of shipping men, including this British-Wall Street syndicate, recently asked the United States Government to fix charter rates for its ships at $14 per ton per month.

Using these official figures as a basis, on each cargo vessel a company can earn, in round figures, from $168 to $200 per ton per year.

Adding the passenger traffic, which has gone up 50 per cent., and express service, it will probably give $200 a ton gross earnings.

Operation is much less expensive now than during the war, when, on account of submarines, bonuses had to be paid to get seamen.

The Vaterland has 54,000 tons.

The British-Wall Street syndicate that offered yesterday $14,000,000 for its pick of the eleven finest vessels in the German fleet has made PROFIT of as much as $33,000,000 in a single year recently out of its inferior fleet.

And it has capitalized that inferior fleet at $154,000,000.

Four months before the European war began President Wilson asked Congress to make a great appropriation to build a government-owned merchant marine. He urged that we should no longer depend on and pay tribute to foreign nations as carriers of our products.

Now, by the fortune of war and as the only fruit of that war reaped by America, we have ready-made the finest fleet in the world.

And President Wilson's incompetent Shipping Board proposes to make virtually a present of it to a British-Wall Street syndicate.

Big Debt of Civilization to Susan Brownell Anthony

One hundred years ago Sunday there was born in South Adams, Mass., a woman who gave the initial impulse to one of the great democratic movements of our time.

Of Quaker ancestry, inheriting the tradition that convictions worth holding are worth sacrificing for, Susan Brownell Anthony passed her early girlhood as a worker in a cotton mill.

But though she worked with her hands by day, she did not neglect her brain. She studied books, later helped by a good schooling. She also studied life.

Her first big lesson was that the vice of drunkenness, then very prevalent in a small mill town, produced not only economic waste, but also suffering and hardship. These fell upon the drunkard, but far more upon innocent women and children.

So she joined in the crusade for total abstinence, chiefly because her sense of justice revolted against the impositions of the drink evil upon these helpless dependents.

When she became a teacher in New Rochelle, in 1840, her pay varied from $2 to $2.50 a week, with board. Men teachers no better equipped, received twice, sometimes thrice, as much.

This was typical of the lowly status of women sixty years ago, but it was another experience, twelve years later, which gave direction to her enthusiasm for justice.

The New York Sons of Temperance held a State convention at Albany. Miss Anthony attended as a reporter, but sought permission to speak. She was told that the sisters had not been invited to speak, but to listen and to learn."

Thus was her thought directed to the need of women for political equality as a means of securing social and economic rights.

She organized a woman's New York State temperance convention; 500 women attended. In the same year, 1852, she attended her first woman's rights convention. She had found her life work.

It is not our purpose to review in detail the great career of this noble woman, but simply to suggest what strides have been taken in the reform to which she dedicated her energy, talents and inexhaustible patience.

Today in fifteen States women have complete political equality with men, and thirty-one States have ratified the Susan B. Anthony amendment to the Constitution giving them equal political rights at Federal elections.

This advance toward political equality is merely a reflex of the progress which women have been making toward economic fair play.

In trade, the professions, civic affairs women are rapidly coming abreast of men and are increasingly judged by their worth alone.

The great battle for the principle that democratic equality of opportunity should not be abridged by sex any more than by color, but that men and women alike should have the chance to advance on merit, has been practically won.

It seems a very natural and obvious thing now that it should have been won.

But it has not been won without desperate, prolonged, often apparently hopeless, struggle.

In that struggle Susan Brownell Anthony was an inspiring pioneer. The honor paid to her memory is a recognition of qualities ever necessary if freedom is to endure.

New Utilities Board Should Have Power of the Courts

The Department of Public Utilities of Massachusetts is the successor to the authority of the old Massachusetts Public Utilities Commission and the Massachusetts Gas and Electric Light Commission.

The new "department" succeeding to the powers of the Public Utilities Commission has authority to summon witnesses and put them under oath in cases relating to the railroads, street railways and telephone companies. But since the old Gas and Electric Light Commission did not have power to put witnesses under oath in its hearings, the new board has not now such power.

Therefore, in cases relating to the electric light companies, gas, power and waterpower companies, the regulating authority has no power to put witnesses under oath or to summon them with their books and papers. This is a very serious gap in the necessary authority of a regulating body.

While the American is certain that regulation of the public service corporations has been and will continue forever to be a definite failure, still it is better than no regulation at all and the more drastic the regulation, the more power the regulating body enjoys, the less resembling anarchy will be the conduct of our public service corporations. The new board ought to have the power of the courts in these very important cases which on the average are far more important than the cases which arise in the courts.

The new board has intelligently asked for such authority. The Legislature ought to grant it promptly and if it is not granted it ought to be put before the people by the initiative.

WHY ORBIT OF EARTH IS IN AN ELLIPSE

By Garrett P. Serviss

"Why is the earth's orbit an ellipse instead of a circle? I should think that, since the motion of the earth is controlled by gravity and centrifugal force, it would be natural to assume the orbit would be a circle—S. W. S."

IF we knew exactly under what condition the solar system was formed and developed we could explain in detail the reason why the earth does not travel in a circle. But, whatever the circumstances under which the system arose may have been, the probability of the earth's motion being performed in a perfectly circular rather than in a more or less elliptical orbit would be vanishingly small.

Only Four Curves

It has been mathematically demonstrated that any body moving around a central attracting mass must necessarily travel in one of four curves, viz., a circle, an ellipse, a parabola or a hyperbola. These are called conics, since the circle is a special case, or form, of the ellipse.

If you hold up a coin square before your eyes its outline is a circle; if you incline it so that the top is farther away than the bottom, the circle becomes an ellipse, which grows more eccentric as the coin is viewed more nearly edgewise.

No Real Circular Orbit

But motion in a perfectly circular orbit is a thing which it would be very difficult for any planet to attain, because the planet would have to start in a direction exactly at right angles, or perpendicular, to the line joining it with the sun, and with a velocity just equal to the parabolic velocity which the sun's attraction would impart at that distance, multiplied by the square root of ½, which is about 0.7071. There is no known case of a planet having an absolutely circular orbit. With true ellipses there is no such difficulty, since they may have any degree of eccentricity, only depending upon the velocity, as long as this does not reach, or exceed, the critical parabolic limit.

Treason

Editor Boston American:

Mr. Hearst and his papers deserve the commendation of every true American, first for his right to preserve the American constitution, and now for his appeal for an American merchant marine service. We need everyone of the ships for South American service alone. President Wilson ought to be impeached if he allows this steal to go through, the American flag to be hauled down, or any other one to take its place would be real treason.

Lansing and the Chinaman: King George's Salary Cheap at the Price: Burglars Are Timid

—By Arthur Brisbane—

(Copyright, 1920.)

Mr. Lansing is the victim of insufficient information. Paralysis affected the President's left side, not the right. The right hand and foot are in good working order.

Mr. Lansing, at leisure, will read with interest President Wilson's story to Clemenceau and Lloyd George.

A Chinaman, late in the evening, hauling water from a deep well, saw the full moon shining at the bottom of the well. "I must get that out," said he, "the world can't get along with the moon down a well." He made a terrific effort, jerked up the pail, and fell over on his back. Looking up he saw the moon shining safely in the sky. "That was good work," said he.

Mr. Lansing, who thought he saw the moon of government down in the bottom of the well, and undertook to pull it up with his little toy cabinet meetings, is probably happy to see it now shining serenely in the sky.

President Wilson is alleged to have told England that if she settles the Adriatic problem, with France and Italy, the United States will not concern itself further in the settlement of European questions.

This doubtless means that President Wilson will not concern himself.

What the United States will do is for the United States to determine from time to time.

Just at present as much of the United States as understands the situation would be glad to have the Adriatic problem settled in the only honest way by restoring to Italy territory stolen from her by the tricky Napoleon Third and the Hapsburgs.

For Fiume is more Italian than Strasburg is French, as the President would know if he visited those cities, understanding French, German and Italian.

The east coast of the Adriatic has been built, protected, peopled and controlled by the Italian peninsula for more than two thousand years.

And the United States has no interest in helping half-civilized Balkan people to steal what belongs to the ancient civilization of Italy.

Canadians don't want Japanese in their country. They want a law forbidding Japanese to own Canadian land. England has an offensive and defensive alliance with Japan, and England knows better than to interfere with Canada's wishes. Why should the United States government, which has no Japanese alliance, interfere when California does what Canada does?

King George has a salary of two million three hundred and fifty thousand dollars a year. The English consider it cheap, and so it is. It is the price that England pays for the right to control her own government and put it out of power at any moment by an adverse vote in the Commons. The King reigns without power, the prime minister and his assistants govern with the right of the people to put them out.

For less than two and a half millions a year England gets "the recall," the right to change the government without waiting for the end of four years. It is cheap.

The King has always had his crown and sceptre. The Lord Mayor of Dublin has had his mace and sword carried before him in processions, representing his power. The sword was sharp to cut. The mace was heavy to break open heads. Dublin's Lord Mayor discards both as relics of barbarism. Sinn Fein would probably find use for both.

Major McMurtrey, accompanied by an unarmed friend, attacked and killed two burglars in a dark cellar. Both were wounded and deserve credit. But killing burglars is not as dangerous or difficult as it sounds.

When the burglar appears before a judge you see nearly always an undersized creature, victim of drugs, alcohol, unable to compete in life's struggle.

Such men are not courageous and would not be dangerous in any ordinary fair fight.
